Hurricane Betsy Storms Up Mississippi River

AN ARMADILLO, struck by a car on East Malone Street in front of the old Sikeston drive-in theater Thursday, was found by Leo Wilkinson, 305 East Murray Lane. The 24-inch isopod species is harmless. It is seldom found any farther north than Texas. The animal when attacked can roll up like a ball and has a hard turtle-like shell.

Pelts Sea And Spray On Coast

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Hurricane Betsy flung spray and seas at the Gulf Coast and then stormed up the Mississippi River early today in probably its final, black night of ruin.

The storm sank much of the bayou country to the south under muddy tides, clawed at this city of a million people in the early morning hours, then spiralled inland passing 20 miles to the west of the state capital of Baton Rouge.

Leaving the sea, its once 150 mile-an-hour winds moderated, bringing a 15-day, 2,500-mile voyage of destruction that killed at least eight persons near to a close. The Weather Bureau said Betsy would weaken to heavy rains and winds in northern Louisiana and Mississippi. It said hurricane warnings would be dropped by 10 a.m.

The almost quarter-million evacues from Louisiana and Mississippi will begin to return to towns and cities left soggy junkyards by the hurricane.

"It was hell," said Burt Lozes, a member of the Civil Defense forces of Harrison County, Miss., where 17 people had been rescued from rooftops, submerged cars and floods where they were swimming for their lives. Damage to waterfront industries in the county, particularly in Gulfport, was estimated at $10 million.

The wind turned the Mississippi waterfront into melee of helpless ships, blown loose from their moorings and battering each other like huge bumper cars in an amusement park.

The New Orleans Harbor Patrol said six ocean-going vessels had broken free. Five had some crew aboard but were powerless and at the mercy of wind and current.

One of them, the Wing Arrow, was swept upstream, hit a Victory ship in the middle of the river, swerved into a cluster of tugs, then struck several moored vessels where her crew managed to get a line ashore. Others hit wharves.

Mayor Victor Schiro said he would ask New Orleans be decleared a disaster area after the eye of the hurricane passed a few miles to the westwards, striking the darkened carnival city with winds up to 115 m.p.h.

At least two deaths were reported. A woman in a New Orleans Red Cross shelter died of a heart attack. And in Baton Rouge the body of an elderly unidentified man was found in the wreckage of a boat landing along the Mississippi. That brought the hurricane's victims to eight, six persons having been killed during Betsy's passage over Florida.

It was too early to calculate the damage but it was heavy.

THE I-55 CONCRETE ribbon rolls south. This picture was taken on the overpass of highway 61, looking north a few miles north of New Madrid. Tais ribbon will continue to be built south another three or four miles. Then the second lane will be poured. The new stretch, which will extend south of New Madrid, will be completed by early winter.

Frank Merkler, 605 Park, was fined $5 and costs for allowing dog to run loose.

Leo Comstcck, 2111 Indiana, was fined $5 and costs for allowing dog to run loose.

Bessie Parks, 402 Daniel, had a drunken charge dismissed.

J. D. Meekie, route one, was fined $30 and costs for careless and imprudent driving.

U.S. Discounts Red Chinese Involvement

WASHINGTON (AP) — Proclaiming a policy of neutrality in the India-Pakistan conflict, U.S. officials tended to discount today the possibility of a major Red Chinese involvement in the fighting.

They nevertheless watched closely the Communist country's mounting flow of invective toward India, which included Thursday an attempt to link the United States with what was called India's aggression against Pakistan.

China's Premier Chou En-lai accused India of "a massive armed attack on Pakistan," and said she "could not have made such a serious military adventure without the consent and support of the United States." His speech marked the third straight day of Red Chinese denunciations of India.

A State Department press officer, Robert J. McCloskey, denied that the United States is favoring either side in the undeclared war over Kashmir.

"The U.S. position is one of impartiality," he said, and spoke at another point of "our posture of neutrality in this."

McCloskey declined to say how much officials may be concerned about the possibility of a Red Chinese attack on India.

Other sources said they believe Peking is ready to wage a war of nerves along her Tibetan border with India — but to go no further.

Officials keeping a close watch on the situation do not believe the Chinese Communists are willing to go beyond minor border incidents, for to do so would involve the major investment in Chinese military manpower and equipment.

Blast Breaks Hart Bread Store Window

ST. LOUIS AP -- Two plate glass windows were shattered by a bomb at a Hart's Bread Discount Co. store at Lemay in south St. Louis County late Thursday night. No injuries were reported.

Police said the explosion appeared to be a black powder bomb.

It was the second bombing of a Hart's store in the St. Louis area this month. Earlier a bomb damaged a branch store in Jennings in north St. Louis County.

The four Hart's stores in the area have been picketed by representatives of Bakers Union Local 611 for the past three months. Hart's is a non-union bakery which supplies its St. Louis branch stores from a plant in Sikeston.

Remap Plan Again Rejected

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes today turned down as impractical the latest proposal of legislative leaders for reapportioning the Missouri House of Representatives.

He said, however, he was "proud they are accepting the idea that the reapportionment job should be done by citizens outside the General Assembly."

The most recent plan was submitted to the governor by House Speaker Thomas D. Graham, D-Cole County.

It would call for a constitutional amendment allowing the minority and majority caucuses of the Missouri House to name five members each to the reapportionment commission. The members would not be legislators.

City Of Chicago Wins Bout With Tree Huggers

CHICAGO (AP) — The battle was between the tree huggers and the city.

The city won, 100-0.

Conservationist Stuart Chase described the holding action on the lakefront Thursday:

"They started up their chain saws and, with blades whirring, charged at us and cut the tree off right on top of us. They tried to drop trees on people and waved whirling chain saws at everybody. If people had been chained to trees, they would have been cut in half.

"People were hugging trees and standing next to trees, and they'd see how close they could cut. I swear, I thought they'd cut Bernie Baum's hand off."

Dr. Bernard Baum, 39, a sociologist, had sawdust in his hair as he talked to newsmen, his back pressed against a large tree.

"I wrapped my legs around one tree trunk a little while ago, but they cut it down anyway," Baum said.

"Don't you feel like a brute?" one tree fancier asked a workman.

"How the hell did Lincoln ever build his log cabin?" the worker retorted.

One hundred trees fell as the city began widening and straightening South Shore Drive through three city parks — including the huge Jackson Park, site of the 1893 Columbian Exposition and hailed as one of the country's most beautiful urban parks.

The 75 or so stalwarts of the Burnham Association — named for Daniel Burnham, who was responsible for the design of Jackson Park — say the $6-million, high-speed, eight-lane divided road is no substitute for 800 trees and lost park space.

Indian Troops Pull Back

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Indian Defense Minister Y. S. Chavan announced today that Indian troops had to withdraw under heavy Pakistani counter-attacks in the raging battle for the northwest plains across the border of India and West Pakistan.

Chavan told Parliament Pakistani shells were falling in the Indian city of Ferozepore, about 10 miles inside Indian territory. India attacked across the border in this sector on Monday, apparently heading for Lahore, Pakistan's second largest city.

Radio Pakistan said Pakistani troops in the Lahore sector — considered the most important in the undeclared war — had moved eastward to capture Indian border posts around Wagah.

The Pakistanis were maintaining "heavy pressure on the enemy" after pushing them out of Pakistani territory, the broadcast said.

The Indian government radio claimed successes on the other two fighting fronts.

At the northern end of the ground war zone, in the Jammusialkot sector of Kashmir, Indian forces captured five important posts and took 150; Pakistanis prisoner, the Indian government radio reported.

The Indian broadcast said Indian units had "severely punished" Pakistani forces on the southern front, more than 200 miles east of Karachi, Pakistan's biggest city and major seaport. There was no indication whether the Indians had advanced in this area, however.

Man Admits Killing Four

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. AP -- "I guess I'm gonna burn." Sheriff Cecil Richardson of Conconiono County said that was the reaction of Donald Boggs after he was charged with killing four men on a blood-stained trek through the West.

"If you don't burn me, Texas or Utah will," the sheriff quoted Boggs as saying Thursday. He said Boggs, 23, an ex-convict, admitted the killings.

Boggs, of Londonderry, Ohio, and his girl friend, Dixie Radcliff, 16, of Amesville, Ohio, were captured Thursday in Flagstaff after an alert service station attendant spotted the stolen car in which they were traveling.

The four dead men were Halvor Johnson, 28, of Newport, N. H.; his companion, Robert Willis, 23, also of Newport; Warren Lenker, 25, a student at Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah, whose home was Elizabeth, Pa.; and H. B. Flory, 59, of San Antonio, Tex.

New Madrid Will Go Back To Standard Time

NEW MADRID -- New Madrid will return to central standard time at midnight Sept. 19.

That, among other things, was decided at the September meeting of the board of aldermen.

The board, in discussing the matter, said that the principal reason for returning to standard time was because of requests from many citizens, particularly those having children in school.

It was also to attempt to stay in line with other Southeast Missouri communities.

A complaint was brought to the board about failure of the city garbage contractor to regularly pick up garbage. Mayor Robert Riley said that he would contact the contractor -- Jay Patterson.

A request that city water be supplied to the Jordan property which is outside the city limits on the southwest corner of New Madrid was denied.

Mrs. Peral Durbin was granted a license for sale of 3.2 beer in the Durbin Cafe at 520 Mott St.

The board authorized Mayor Riley to attend the municipal league meeting in Kansas City.

Because of the move from the city of Roy E. Boeker, who formerly audited books of the City of New Madrid and Municipal Light & Power, it was ordered that a Mr. Chambers of Malden be contracted for an estimate on the work.

Passed by the board was an ordinance which authorizes the city to make a crossing of the Cotton Belt railroad at Hunter Street, and set out traffic regulations at the crossing corner.

Charleston School Refuses Pierce

CHARLESTON -- The R-1 board of education turned down a request by Supt. W. R. Pierce to be released from his contract, effective Dec. 31. The board voted three to two in favor of the release, but it required four votes in favor.

A sixth member of the board was on vacation, and it was the opinion of the board the absent member was in favor of the release. It was not known whether the board will reconsider the matter on his return.

There were indications of friction between the new superintendent and members of the school board. The administrator has a contract for one year.

Pierce has been offered a position with the state department of education, as director of research, beginning Jan. 1.

"I believe the conditions under which I am working at present to be detrimental to good school administration.

He explained that if he accepted the new position that he would be in a position to help provide a better educational program for boys and girls within the entire state."

SAIGON, South Viet Nam AP - U.S. Air Force B52s bombed a suspected Viet Cong stronghold in the central highlands of South Viet Nam today, a U. S. military spokesman announced.

Holman has been state audiotr since 1953.

The American Legion post, carnival sponsor, last night agreed to meet on the second and fourth Thursday of every month. It has been meeting monthly.

John R. Felker, post commander, said that more frequent meetings should allow the Legion to keep its business up to date.

George Johnson, chairman of this year's Cotton Carnival, said that the final carnival committee meeting will be next Friday.

Five thousand cotton carnival books are being printed by The Daily Standard. Each book will be delivered to homes in the community free of charge, advertising manager Glen McClellan announced.

Stone Breaks Train Dome

GRAY SUMMIT, Mo. AP -- A large stone hurled from atop a tunnel shattered part of the glass dome liner of a Missouri-Pacific railroad train and injured one passenger Thursday night.

Miss Sandra Carter, 20, of Des Moines, Iowa, had a sliver of glass enter her right eye. She was taken to Barnes Hospital after the train arrived in St. Louis and the sliver was removed.

She continued to her Little Rock destination on another train.

The train had come from Kansas City. MOPAC officials said a youth standing on top of the tunnel threw the stone.

Bishops Reject Heresy Charges

EAST GLACIER, Mont. AP Bishops of the Protestant Episcopal Church have rejected heresy charges against Bishop James A. Pike of California.

In a side issue the Episcopal leaders refused Thursday to allow Bishop Pike to ordain a woman deacon. The bishop withdrew his plans for the ordination, which would have been the first in the 3 1/2 -million-member church.

Space Officials Satisfied Man Can Fly To Moon

MANNED SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP) — Astronauts L. Gordon Cooper Jr. and Charles Conrad Jr., two space champions who itch to fly to the moon, proved to space officials' satisfaction man could survive a round trip lunar voyage.

The Gemini 5 space twins wound up 11 days of debriefing on their eight-day flight Thursday with an enthusiastic story of lots of work, excitement and only a few frustrations.

Before their news conference, Dr. Robert Gilruth, director of the Manned Spacecraft Center, noted that the Cooper-Conrad flight matched the time it would take to fly to the moon and back.

"The results, I think, prove man can do this and do it well," he said.

The flight apparently revealed no major problem areas that might endanger or delay the Gemini program, with Gemini 6 on tap Oct. 25 and the marathon 14-day Gemini 7, in December.

The space agency is wasting no time preparing for the critical Gemini 6 flight, a one or two-day mission that will include a rendezvous, docking and locking maneuver with an Agena satellite. The capsule was mated with the Titan 2 rocket Thursday on the launch pad at Cape Kennedy, Fla.

Mansfield Says He'll Push Ahead Union Shop Ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said today he will push ahead with a bill to bar state laws against union shop contracts despite a threatened filibuster.

A group of Republican and Democratic senators met late Thursday in the office of Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen to map strategy for blocking the measure to repeal section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Under that section, 19 states now forbid union shop contracts, under which a worker must join a labor union to hold his job.

Earlier Dirksen had announced at a news conference, with the backing of the Senate-House Republican leadership, that an all-out, bipartisan effort to kill the bill was being organized.

If President Johnson continues to insist on Senate consideration of the measure this year, Dirksen said, "the present session of Congress will end not with a bang in the fall but with a whimper when the snow falls."

"There is no emergency, no crisis that requires alteration of a law for which the President once voted and which he never sought to amend in the course of 12 years of service in the Senate," Dirksen said.

Mansfield said Johnson had been advised of the developing filibuster against the bill, already passed by the House, but had made no comment.

Mansfield declined to speculate on what would happen if a two-thirds majority could not be obtained to cut off a filibuster.

Asked if he would be prepared to battle on until Christmas, as Dirksen and other opponents said they are ready to do, Mansfield replied with a smile, "That's a long time."

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., one of those who attended the strategy session in Dirksen's office, said opponents were prepared to wage "a fight to the bitter end."

Clash With DeGaulle

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a clear policy clash with French President Charles de Gaulle, President Johnson is sending a new ambassador to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization Council in Paris with instructions to strengthen and expand the political and nuclear roles of the Atlantic alliance.

"A strong NATO remains essential," Johnson told departing Ambassador Harland Cleveland, "if we are to reach a solid agreement with the Soviet Union that reflects the common interests of each of the allied nations in peace and security."

The President conferred with Cleveland Thursday. The White House made public Johnson's statement a few hours after De Gaulle had declared at a news conference in Paris that France intends to end at least by 1969 the "subordination" of French defense forces by NATO.

De Gaulle's words were read here and by Western observers in Paris as a definite statement of intention to remove France from the NATO military command. This coud mean removal of NATO headquarters from Paris.

De Gaulle's words came as no surprise to U. S. officials. Authorities here and in other allied capitals have been conferring for several months on the possibility that De Gaulle, assuming he is re-elected in December, may pull France out of the Atlantic alliance when that becomes legally possible in 1969. The treaty was concluded in 1949 and contains a 20-year withdrawal clause.

54 Speeders Are Fined

CHARLESTON -- The state highway patrol has cautioned drivers to observe speed limits. Over the Labor Day weekend it made a special speed check on Interstate 57. The check was made from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

There were 54 motorists cited in magistrate court and the fines totaled $1,286, according to Sheriff W. J. Simmons.

The fines called for payment of $1 per mile over 70 miles per hour, and $1.50 per mile about 80 miles, and $2.00 over 90 miles.

Three of the speeders were clocked at more than 100 miles per hour, eight at 90 or more, and the rest over 70, but less than 85 miles per hour. Court costs in each case amounted to $11.

Two Burned In Gas Explosion

KENNETT -- Two brothers, Lanny Earl Wilson, 20, and Ronnie Paul Wilson, 17, were burned about the face, hands and arms Wednesday when propane gas exploded in the bathroom of the Wilson home on Kennett route two.

According to their father, John C. Wilson, he and his sons were attempting to blow out a stopped-up water line at 9:30 a.m. by using a high pressure tank of propane gas. They were in the bathroom, had opened all doors and windows and cautioned each other not to strike a match while they blew out the lines. They overlooked a water heater and the flames from it apparently caused the explosion. The father escaped with burns.

The brothers were brought to Presnell Hospital in Kennett where their condition was pronounced as satisfactory.

Recover Body Of Negro Boy

NEW MADRID -- The body of Walter Flournoy, eight-year-old New Madrid Negro boy, was recovered at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday. He had lost his life in the Mississippi River Monday afternoon.

City Marshal O. E. Householder and Officer Gerald Shaw found the body floating in the river approximately a half mile downstream from where the boy had drowned. They and several other volunteers were patrolling that section of the river on the theory that the body would come up at about that time.

Coronor Leo Hedgepeth of New Madrid, said that burial was in Sand Hill cemetery Thursday morning with Richards Funeral Service in charge.

A son of Theodus Flournoy he drowned when he is believed to have stepped into deep water while wading.

'Hearts Of Soldiers' With Children

UTICA, N.Y. (AP) — A Marine known as "Doc," fighting in Viet Nam, wrote to a class of third graders in Utica:

"The hearts of soldiers here are with you. We love you."

Two months ago, the 9-year-olds at St. Agnes School posted 33 letters to "American soldiers, Viet Nam." "Doc" is one of more than 20 who replied.

"Dear American Soldier: I am proud of your bravery, even the soldiers who are unknown are not forgotten. You went over to Viet Nam to protect us in the United States — your friend Mary."

The children's letters reached the front page of the Army newspaper, the Observer, published in Saigon.

"The main purpose was to boost the morale of our soldiers," said Sister Rita Shawn. "I am so tired of hearing about college students demonstrating against our own boys out there that I just had to do something."

"Doc" wrote that "this letter is not to a group of children, it is to a class of third grade men and women of the next generation."

"A lot of college students should go to grade school again and you young people belong in their place," he said.

"Never before have I read such heart-warming words from such young people."

The Army newspaper said the children repeatedly expressed their pride in the Americans fighting in Viet Nam and expressed fear that the soldiers were not being thanked.

"Not many people thank you for fighting for our country but I do," Elaine wrote.

Deanna wrote:

"Although you are far away, we pray for you always. Americans are helping to fight the enemy. We pray to God that the enemy will soon learn the truth about freedom."

Police said the explosion appeared to be a black powder bomb.

It was the second bombing of a Hart's store in the St. Louis area this month. Earlier a bomb damaged a branch store in Jennings in north St. Louis County.

The four Hart's stores in the area have been picketed by representatives of Bakers Union Local 611 for the past three months. Hart's is a non-union bakery which supplies its St. Louis branch stores from a plant in Sikeston.

Remap Plan Again Rejected

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes today turned down as impractical the latest proposal of legislative leaders for reapportioning the Missouri House of Representatives.

He said, however, he was "proud they are accepting the idea that the reapportionment job should be done by citizens outside the General Assembly."

The most recent plan was submitted to the governor by House Speaker Thomas D. Graham, D-Cole County.

It would call for a constitutional amendment allowing the minority and majority caucuses of the Missouri House to name five members each to the reapportionment commission. The members would not be legislators.

Indian Troops Pull Back

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Indian Defense Minister Y. S. Chavan announced today that Indian troops had to withdraw under heavy Pakistani counter-attacks in the raging battle for the northwest plains across the border of India and West Pakistan.

Chavan told Parliament Pakistani shells were falling in the Indian city of Ferozepore, about 10 miles inside Indian territory. India attacked across the border in this sector on Monday, apparently heading for Lahore, Pakistan's second largest city.

Radio Pakistan said Pakistani troops in the Lahore sector — considered the most important in the undeclared war — had moved eastward to capture Indian border posts around Wagah.

The Pakistanis were maintaining "heavy pressure on the enemy" after pushing them out of Pakistani territory, the broadcast said.

The Indian government radio claimed successes on the other two fighting fronts.

At the northern end of the ground war zone, in the Jammusialkot sector of Kashmir, Indian forces captured five important posts and took 150; Pakistanis prisoner, the Indian government radio reported.

The Indian broadcast said Indian units had "severely punished" Pakistani forces on the southern front, more than 200 miles east of Karachi, Pakistan's biggest city and major seaport. There was no indication whether the Indians had advanced in this area, however.

New Madrid Will Go Back To Standard Time

NEW MADRID -- New Madrid will return to central standard time at midnight Sept. 19.

That, among other things, was decided at the September meeting of the board of aldermen.

The board, in discussing the matter, said that the principal reason for returning to standard time was because of requests from many citizens, particularly those having children in school.

It was also to attempt to stay in line with other Southeast Missouri communities.

A complaint was brought to the board about failure of the city garbage contractor to regularly pick up garbage. Mayor Robert Riley said that he would contact the contractor -- Jay Patterson.

A request that city water be supplied to the Jordan property which is outside the city limits on the southwest corner of New Madrid was denied.

Mrs. Peral Durbin was granted a license for sale of 3.2 beer in the Durbin Cafe at 520 Mott St.

The board authorized Mayor Riley to attend the municipal league meeting in Kansas City.

Because of the move from the city of Roy E. Boeker, who formerly audited books of the City of New Madrid and Municipal Light & Power, it was ordered that a Mr. Chambers of Malden be contracted for an estimate on the work.

Passed by the board was an ordinance which authorizes the city to make a crossing of the Cotton Belt railroad at Hunter Street, and set out traffic regulations at the crossing corner.

Charleston School Refuses Pierce

CHARLESTON -- The R-1 board of education turned down a request by Supt. W. R. Pierce to be released from his contract, effective Dec. 31. The board voted three to two in favor of the release, but it required four votes in favor.

A sixth member of the board was on vacation, and it was the opinion of the board the absent member was in favor of the release. It was not known whether the board will reconsider the matter on his return.

There were indications of friction between the new superintendent and members of the school board. The administrator has a contract for one year.

Pierce has been offered a position with the state department of education, as director of research, beginning Jan. 1.

"I believe the conditions under which I am working at present to be detrimental to good school administration.

He explained that if he accepted the new position that he would be in a position to help provide a better educational program for boys and girls within the entire state."

Bishops Reject Heresy Charges

EAST GLACIER, Mont. AP Bishops of the Protestant Episcopal Church have rejected heresy charges against Bishop James A. Pike of California.

In a side issue the Episcopal leaders refused Thursday to allow Bishop Pike to ordain a woman deacon. The bishop withdrew his plans for the ordination, which would have been the first in the 3 1/2 -million-member church.

City Of Chicago Wins Bout With Tree Huggers

CHICAGO (AP) — The battle was between the tree huggers and the city.

The city won, 100-0.

Conservationist Stuart Chase described the holding action on the lakefront Thursday:

"They started up their chain saws and, with blades whirring, charged at us and cut the tree off right on top of us. They tried to drop trees on people and waved whirling chain saws at everybody. If people had been chained to trees, they would have been cut in half.

"People were hugging trees and standing next to trees, and they'd see how close they could cut. I swear, I thought they'd cut Bernie Baum's hand off."

Dr. Bernard Baum, 39, a sociologist, had sawdust in his hair as he talked to newsmen, his back pressed against a large tree.

"I wrapped my legs around one tree trunk a little while ago, but they cut it down anyway," Baum said.

"Don't you feel like a brute?" one tree fancier asked a workman.

"How the hell did Lincoln ever build his log cabin?" the worker retorted.

One hundred trees fell as the city began widening and straightening South Shore Drive through three city parks — including the huge Jackson Park, site of the 1893 Columbian Exposition and hailed as one of the country's most beautiful urban parks.

The 75 or so stalwarts of the Burnham Association — named for Daniel Burnham, who was responsible for the design of Jackson Park — say the $6-million, high-speed, eight-lane divided road is no substitute for 800 trees and lost park space.

Man Admits Killing Four

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. AP -- "I guess I'm gonna burn."

Sheriff Cecil Richardson of Conconiono County said that was the reaction of Donald Boggs after he was charged with killing four men on a blood-stained trek through the West.

"If you don't burn me, Texas or Utah will," the sheriff quoted Boggs as saying Thursday. He said Boggs, 23, an ex-convict, admitted the killings.

Boggs, of Londonderry, Ohio, and his girl friend, Dixie Radcliff, 16, of Amesville, Ohio, were captured Thursday in Flagstaff after an alert service station attendant spotted the stolen car in which they were traveling.

The four dead men were Halvor Johnson, 28, of Newport, N. H.; his companion, Robert Willis, 23, also of Newport; Warren Lenker, 25, a student at Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah, whose home was Elizabeth, Pa.; and H. B. Flory, 59, of San Antonio, Tex.

Space Officials Satisfied Man Can Fly To Moon

MANNED SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP) — Astronauts L. Gordon Cooper Jr. and Charles Conrad Jr., two space champions who itch to fly to the moon, proved to space officials' satisfaction man could survive a round trip lunar voyage.

The Gemini 5 space twins wound up 11 days of debriefing on their eight-day flight Thursday with an enthusiastic story of lots of work, excitement and only a few frustrations.

Before their news conference, Dr. Robert Gilruth, director of the Manned Spacecraft Center, noted that the Cooper-Conrad flight matched the time it would take to fly to the moon and back.

"The results, I think, prove man can do this and do it well," he said.

The flight apparently revealed no major problem areas that might endanger or delay the Gemini program, with Gemini 6 on tap Oct. 25 and the marathon 14-day Gemini 7, in December.

The space agency is wasting no time preparing for the critical Gemini 6 flight, a one or two-day mission that will include a rendezvous, docking and locking maneuver with an Agena satellite. The capsule was mated with the Titan 2 rocket Thursday on the launch pad at Cape Kennedy, Fla.

Mansfield Says He'll Push Ahead Union Shop Ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said today he will push ahead with a bill to bar state laws against union shop contracts despite a threatened filibuster.

A group of Republican and Democratic senators met late Thursday in the office of Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen to map strategy for blocking the measure to repeal section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Under that section, 19 states now forbid union shop contracts, under which a worker must join a labor union to hold his job.

Earlier Dirksen had announced at a news conference, with the backing of the Senate-House Republican leadership, that an all-out, bipartisan effort to kill the bill was being organized.

If President Johnson continues to insist on Senate consideration of the measure this year, Dirksen said, "the present session of Congress will end not with a bang in the fall but with a whimper when the snow falls."

"There is no emergency, no crisis that requires alteration of a law for which the President once voted and which he never sought to amend in the course of 12 years of service in the Senate," Dirksen said.

Mansfield said Johnson had been advised of the developing filibuster against the bill, already passed by the House, but had made no comment.

Mansfield declined to speculate on what would happen if a two-thirds majority could not be obtained to cut off a filibuster.

Asked if he would be prepared to battle on until Christmas, as Dirksen and other opponents said they are ready to do, Mansfield replied with a smile, "That's a long time."

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., one of those who attended the strategy session in Dirksen's office, said opponents were prepared to wage "a fight to the bitter end."

'Hearts Of Soldiers' With Children

UTICA, N.Y. (AP) — A Marine known as "Doc," fighting in Viet Nam, wrote to a class of third graders in Utica:

"The hearts of soldiers here are with you. We love you."

Two months ago, the 9-year-olds at St. Agnes School posted 33 letters to "American soldiers, Viet Nam." "Doc" is one of more than 20 who replied.

"Dear American Soldier: I am proud of your bravery, even the soldiers who are unknown are not forgotten. You went over to Viet Nam to protect us in the United States — your friend Mary."

The children's letters reached the front page of the Army newspaper, the Observer, published in Saigon.

"The main purpose was to boost the morale of our soldiers," said Sister Rita Shawn. "I am so tired of hearing about college students demonstrating against our own boys out there that I just had to do something."

"Doc" wrote that "this letter is not to a group of children, it is to a class of third grade men and women of the next generation."

"A lot of college students should go to grade school again and you young people belong in their place," he said.

"Never before have I read such heart-warming words from such young people."

The Army newspaper said the children repeatedly expressed their pride in the Americans fighting in Viet Nam and expressed fear that the soldiers were not being thanked.

"Not many people thank you for fighting for our country but I do," Elaine wrote.

Deanna wrote:

"Although you are far away, we pray for you always. Americans are helping to fight the enemy. We pray to God that the enemy will soon learn the truth about freedom."

Stone Breaks Train Dome

GRAY SUMMIT, Mo. AP -- A large stone hurled from atop a tunnel shattered part of the glass dome liner of a Missouri-Pacific railroad train and injured one passenger Thursday night.

Miss Sandra Carter, 20, of Des Moines, Iowa, had a sliver of glass enter her right eye. She was taken to Barnes Hospital after the train arrived in St. Louis and the sliver was removed.

She continued to her Little Rock destination on another train.

The train had come from Kansas City. MOPAC officials said a youth standing on top of the tunnel threw the stone.

Clash With DeGaulle

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a clear policy clash with French President Charles de Gaulle, President Johnson is sending a new ambassador to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization Council in Paris with instructions to strengthen and expand the political and nuclear roles of the Atlantic alliance.

"A strong NATO remains essential," Johnson told departing Ambassador Harland Cleveland, "if we are to reach a solid agreement with the Soviet Union that reflects the common interests of each of the allied nations in peace and security."

The President conferred with Cleveland Thursday. The White House made public Johnson's statement a few hours after De Gaulle had declared at a news conference in Paris that France intends to end at least by 1969 the "subordination" of French defense forces by NATO.

De Gaulle's words were read here and by Western observers in Paris as a definite statement of intention to remove France from the NATO military command. This coud mean removal of NATO headquarters from Paris.

De Gaulle's words came as no surprise to U. S. officials. Authorities here and in other allied capitals have been conferring for several months on the possibility that De Gaulle, assuming he is re-elected in December, may pull France out of the Atlantic alliance when that becomes legally possible in 1969. The treaty was concluded in 1949 and contains a 20-year withdrawal clause.

54 Speeders Are Fined

CHARLESTON -- The state highway patrol has cautioned drivers to observe speed limits. Over the Labor Day weekend it made a special speed check on Interstate 57. The check was made from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

There were 54 motorists cited in magistrate court and the fines totaled $1,286, according to Sheriff W. J. Simmons.

The fines called for payment of $1 per mile over 70 miles per hour, and $1.50 per mile about 80 miles, and $2.00 over 90 miles.

Three of the speeders were clocked at more than 100 miles per hour, eight at 90 or more, and the rest over 70, but less than 85 miles per hour. Court costs in each case amounted to $11.

Two Burned In Gas Explosion

KENNETT -- Two brothers, Lanny Earl Wilson, 20, and Ronnie Paul Wilson, 17, were burned about the face, hands and arms Wednesday when propane gas exploded in the bathroom of the Wilson home on Kennett route two.

According to their father, John C. Wilson, he and his sons were attempting to blow out a stopped-up water line at 9:30 a.m. by using a high pressure tank of propane gas. They were in the bathroom, had opened all doors and windows and cautioned each other not to strike a match while they blew out the lines. They overlooked a water heater and the flames from it apparently caused the explosion. The father escaped with burns.

The brothers were brought to Presnell Hospital in Kennett where their condition was pronounced as satisfactory.

Recover Body Of Negro Boy

NEW MADRID -- The body of Walter Flournoy, eight-year-old New Madrid Negro boy, was recovered at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday. He had lost his life in the Mississippi River Monday afternoon.

City Marshal O. E. Householder and Officer Gerald Shaw found the body floating in the river approximately a half mile downstream from where the boy had drowned. They and several other volunteers were patrolling that section of the river on the theory that the body would come up at about that time.

Coronor Leo Hedgepeth of New Madrid, said that burial was in Sand Hill cemetery Thursday morning with Richards Funeral Service in charge.

A son of Theodus Flournoy he drowned when he is believed to have stepped into deep water while wading.

The award to Sikeston of one of nine mental retardation clinics authorized by the recent session of the state legislature speaks well for the community's appearance to outsiders as well as for its assets.

Without question Sikeston would not have been chosen as one of the sites if its facilities for medical care were inadequate.

The community is staffed by capable surgeons and doctors, has an excellent hospital and well equipped medical clinics. It maintains an air of newness, of progress and of competence in the medical field.

This is the kind of community in which the state is eager to locate the clinics because one best fits into such a city.

A proposed site adjacent to the Missouri Delta Community hospital seems to be a highly desirable location for the community's newest health care facility.

The clinic will combine the desirable aspects of a small industry and a thriving retail establishment, which draws trade. It will employ 35. Families of patients treated at the clinic will require food and lodging. They will purchase gasoline and many will shop in Sikeston stores while they are in the city.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce and Sikeston Industrial Development Corporation deserves a bow for staying with the effort to get one of the clinics located here.

It is seldom that anything worthwhile is laid in the lap of a city.

The clinic is no exception. A total of $30,000 must be raised to buy a site for a half million dollar structure to be constructed by the state.

There should be no difficulty on this score.

The return to the community will be much greater than the down payment.

NATIONAL TESTS NEXT STEP

Famous last words:

Federal aid to education need not carry with it control of education.

Editor Wes Izzard calls attention to the Associated Press report quoting a state superintendent of education attending a conference in Washington as laying 2 to 1 odds that "we'll have national testing within five years, and the start of a national curriculum dictated by Washington within ten years."

A second prominent educator is reported to have advised: "Don't take the bet. The tests are being drawn up now."

The least effect of federal control of education would be conformity in what is taught and the way it is taught.

The worst effect would be the out-right political dictation of curriculum and method.

You may insist this is not possible now, or in the next administration. But what about the one after that--or the one 50 years from now?

The road to hell has been paved with good intentions, but the American people must be careful of Big Daddy government whether it is in education or individual freedom.

Give an inch and the socialist pushers will take a mile.

SEPTEMBER PLANTING

Across the flat black country fields the dark verdancy begins to peel away as harvest reaps the bounty of earth, rain and sun in the age-old ritual. The dense line of trees along a dry creek bed fades from bright green to pale. And up the rolling slopes of crusty hardscrabble land a vast veil of searing yellow sparkles as the wild blossoms wave in a warm September breeze.

The young birds of summer twitter of trips to winter hideaways and crickets sing a dirge for the passing summer season.

Nature again has produced, and sits back to watch the bending boughs drop their seeds that the circle of life and death may roll forward yet another year. Man plants in spring, but now in September it is seedtime for the untended trees and grasses.

Approaching autumn divided the poets of yesteryear. Or did they ever agree? "Where are the songs of spring?" was the plaintive cry of young JOHN KEATS. "Ay, where are they?" But the unmerry Englishman was answered by a German by the name of LUDWIG HOLTY who shed no tears as he observed: "Sickles ring, maidens sing to the sickle's sound. . .harvest songs go round."

And so it must be, for the seed falls and sings into the hungry earth the memory of summer becomes a promise of its return. "In all my autumn dreams a future summer gleans," wrote GEORGE ARNOLD, "passing the fairest glories of the present!"

THE 14(B) SITUATION

Assuming that the Senate is going to echo the House on repeal of Section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley Act is out of date.

In the House there was a steam roller attitude against amendments. But a considerable feeling is developing around the country, and being urged upon senators, for modification. An example was published in Letters to the Editor, in Sunday's issue of THE COMMERCIAL APPEAL.

It was a copy of a letter to Senator ALBERT GORE (D., Tenn.) from MARTIN J. CONDON III, former president of the Tennessee Manufacturers' Association. Mr. CONDON urges support of the amendment which would require a vote by secret ballot on choice of a union before any union could obtain a contract with a closed shop or union shop clause.

This is the clause that requires a worker to join the union or lose his job. But some unions have obtained a contract without ever being named by the workers in a secret ballot. They have attained bargaining agency power only on a count of authorization cards, which are sometimes gathered with face-to-face pressure.

Aside from the push for these amendments there is increasing possibility of the Senate stopping the whole repeal procedure. Late last week it developed that 25 senators are ready to filibuster. They include EVERETT DIRKSEN (R., Ill.), leader of the Republican members who often support the Johnson Administration.

Another kind of vote difference is looming ahead. If any method of defeating or delaying repeal works for the next two weeks, the whole thing probably will go over until next year and that will be election year for every member of the House.

President JOHNSON has obtained most of the things he wanted in Congress this year. Under best of conditions it is a danger year for congressmen who rode the coat tails of the presidential campaigning, expecially those who have become conspicuous by following the Johnson recommendations so closely.

In Tennessee, for instance the only House votes for repeal of 14(b) came from GEORGE GRIDER of Memphis, WILLIAM ANDERSON of Waverly and RICHARD FULTON of Nashville.

In the tradition of FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT, the President is likely to ease up after a year of obtaining many changes and undertake to sooth the voting public. That could mean a letdown that turns out some members in both houses.

PEARL HARBOR HINDSIGHT

In his novel, Hawaii, James Michener describes the delivery of a telegram on December 7, 1941: "At 4:31 that hot, terrifying afternoon Shigeo Sakagawa reached the end of his route, and he pedaled his Cable Wireless bicycle up the long drive leading to the residence of General Lansing Hommer, where the ashen-faced military leader took the cable and scribbled his name across the receipt.

"His command had been virtually destroyed. The islands he was supposed to protect were at the mercy of the enemy. Even his own headquarters had been strafed with impunity. At the end of the debacle he was forced to receive cables from Washington, but this particular one was more than he could stomach.

"He read it, swore, crumpled it up and threw it on the floor. As it slowly unfolded itself, Shig could read that it had come from the War Department. It warned General Hommer that Japan might attempt to attack Pearl Harbor.

"With all the instantaneous systems of communications available to the government, Washington could have rushed the message through in time to prevent the holocaust, but it had transmitted this most urgent of contemporary cables by ordinary commercial wireless. It arrived ten hours late, delivered on bicycle by a Japanese messenger boy."

Unlike the trends for most other diseases, the mortality rate from peptic ulcer has been rising among women but decreasing among men, statisticians report.

A study of the experience among the company's industrial policyholders show that the contrasting trends are especially marked for ulcer of the stomach.

The statisticians observed that there was a 20 per cent reduction in mortality from stomach ulcer among white men aged 35 to 74 in the past decade. In contrast, the death rate among white women in the same age range rose by 26 per cent. A similar, though less striking change, is seen in the mortality trends from ulcer of the duodenum. For men the mortality rate was down by 1 per cent, while among females it increased by 14 per cent.

Although the sex difference in peptic ulcer mortality trends is narrowing, men still record a very much higher death rate. Among insured men at ages 35 to 74 it was 4 1/2 times that among women. Even at ages 65 to 74, where the disparity is lowest, the ratio is nearly 4 to 1, the statisticians noted.

The relative importance of the two sites of ulcer has changed appreciably as a result of the differences in trend. Among men in this insurance experience, the death rate from stomach ulcer was one-sixth higher than that from duodenal ulcer in 1950-52. Now, however the situation is reversed, with duodenal ulcer showing a slightly higher mortality rate.

Peptic ulcer is a significant national health problem, the statisticians concluded. In 1962, about 12,000 deaths in the general population of the United States were attributed to the disease. Peptic ulcer, moreover, is also responsible for a considerable amount of illness and disability. It is estimated from data collected by the National Health Survey that about 2 1/2 million persons in the country have peptic ulcer, and that more than 450,000 patients are hospitalized for it each year.

CHALLENGE TO ALL OF US

One of the largest single grants ever given by individual donors to a college was announced when DeWitt and Lila Wallace, co-founders and co-publishers of The Reader's Digest, gave $10 million to Macalester College of St. Paul, Minn.

Although multi-million dollar gifts to colleges by individuals are not uncommon, the Wallaces' grant brings to a total of $25 million their gifts to Macalester and probably sets a record for individual giving to a school of its size. This liberal arts college has an enrollment of approximately 1600 students.

What interests us more about the gift than its amount, however, is the manner in which it is being given. It is a "challenge gift": that is, Macalester will get the money only if it can raise an equivalent amount by itself.

The college has risen to the challenge by announcing a $32 million capital building program for the next ten years. President Harvey Rice asserted his "complete confidence" that the goals of the program would be achieved by the time of the college's centennial celebration in 1974.

What a strong rebuttal this is to those who cry that education's only hope is for massive Government support! Here is a small school in a relatively small community able to formulate an enormously ambitious program and eagerly accept the challenge offered by a matching-grant donor.

Mr. Wallace said when he announced the grant: "Mrs. Wallace and I believe no other investment yields greater dividends of satisfaction than one made in behalf of liberal arts colleges. We hope that our significant challenge will encourage others to participate more actively in the affairs of not only Macalester, but other educational institutions as well."

It seems to us that in his challenging gift to Macalester, Mr. Wallace has also thrown down the gauntlet before those of his fellow citizens who are content to let the Government take over control of education.

This gift should remind every one of us that our future and our continued freedoms are largely in the hands of our institutions of higher learning. They need and deserve wholehearted individual support -- and we need them to be strong and independent.

EIGHT MAGIC WORDS--

Henry Ford didn't give many speeches during his lifetime. Many years ago he was persuaded to speak to a group of teenage boys who had been assembled at Greenfield Village from all over the United States. These boys were the most promising young men of the country, some of whom could be expected to become the Fords and Edisons of the future.

Ford gave his speech when the movies were first beginning to talk and the speech has been saved for posterity. I saw and heard the speech while attending a recent meeting at Greenfield Village. The speech was given in nineteen twenty-eight. That's thirty-five years ago. Just before the great depression. I wonder what has happened to the boys who heard it.

The speech consisted of just eight words. Ford stepped to the rostrum, thanked the chairman, President Herbert Hoover, turned to the audience and said: "There is no such thing as no chance!"

PATHWAY OF GOLD

Every year when autumn rolls around again I think of a walk my wife and I took one October along an old tote road in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan. The ground was completely covered with golden leaves. It was as though we were walking along a street of gold.

Of course, we remarked about the traditional heaven with its streets of gold, and we both agreed that nature is certainly in close second place to any heaven that there may be beyond this earth. We've been in the mountains of New England in the autumn when the maples were like men marching upward with flaming torches. We have seen rainbows in waterfalls. We have watched the clouds when they have taken the form of towers and castles. We have seen the miracle of the midnight sun beyond the Arctic Circle.

There is heaven on earth. We've seen it!

YOU'LL NEVER GET OUT ALIVE

Elbert Hubbard makes the point that we'll never get out of life alive. No one ever has. No one ever will. Even if we strive to protect ourselves from every danger, and refuse to take a chance we still can't win . . . we still won't get out of life alive.

So why not take some risks and do some adventuring? This is the way to get the most fun out of life. Augustine said it very well away back in A.D. 430: "The world is a great book, from which they who never stir from home read only a page." Today the United States is a neighborhood, Europe and Asia and all the world, can be reached in hours.

If we live our years in fear, never going anywhere, never doing anything different or challenging we may postpone our departure from this world. But that's only a probability because statisticians tell us most fatal accidents occur in the home! So why miss the glory and wonder of the world?

TREASURY OF IDEAS

It seems to me we make a mistake when we think of a library as a building of stone or marble, and books as inanimate objects. In a talk given to the Michigan State Library Association I closed with this sentence: "The library is a mental launching pad from which to send new ideas soaring into inner space --into the minds and hearts of men."

The work of the librarian is to release the ideas in books so those ideas can go to work in people. Ideas are vital and alive and often have more power than an atomic bomb. Ideas in books can change people, widen their horizons, set them forth on new careers, expand their knowledge of the world, deepen their sense of spiritual values, broaden their lives.

A library is a great treasure house of ideas and the only key you need is the desire to grow. When you walk into a library you have at your command the resources of all the world's thinkers since time began. The great thinkers are alive in the library and ready to help you.

H. L. Hunt Says

WHO STANDS FOR LIBERTY?

The land is full of "bold new programs" by government; the air is full of the enthusiastic voices of the planners for government; more and more the chosen road of the ambitious is not personal production but the manipulation of power through government.

Questions are still raised; criticism is still heard. But most of the time it revolves around mere details. Should we use this plan or that plan? Should we make government twice as big this year, or wait five years? The debaters take it for granted that the massive trend of the times toward more and more government is both desirable and inevitable. In the midst of this turmoil of the power-seekers and the power-users, who stands for liberty?

Liberty does not mean absence of government. Liberty does not mean an irresponsible policy of instant destruction of existing government programs on which people have come to rely. Liberty does not mean opposition simply for opposition's sake.

A true love of liberty will impel us to ask questions, not about how the innumerable "bold new programs" of government are to be carried out, but what their real effects will be on individual freedom. No matter how often these vital questions may seem to be drowned out by the chanting of mindless slogans such as "extremism," "super - patriotism," and others, those American who love liberty and their heritage will continue to ask them.

Whether we agree or disagree, we would do well to hearken to their voices; for it is the voice of the conscience of Americans.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- At the rate Negro registration is going in the south, the first major political casualty is likely to be gnarled, despotic Allen Ellender, the senior senator from Louisiana.

Ellender came to Washington almost thirty years ago as the successor to the famed Louisiana "Kingfish" Huey Long, whose son Russell is now the junior senator from that state. At that time, Ellender was so down to earth that he won the nickname "Potatoes" and so full of beans that this column in 1937 awarded him the brass ring.

In his long career since, Ellender has chalked up some constructive landmarks for himself and the nation. He was an inveterate foe for McCarthyism at a time when the late Senator from Wisconsin was in his heyday. He was co-author of the first Public Housing Bill, along with Bob Wagner of New York and Bob Taft of Ohio. He introduced the first Aid-to-Education Bill and early sponsored the school lunch program.

But as the years have passed, the Senator from Louisiana has moved further from the people, closer to big business, and has seemed more interested in junketing abroad and looking out for Allen Ellender than in looking out for the interests of Louisiana voters.

On his many trips abroad, Ellender has collected a personal museum ranging from African spears to Babylonian Earthenware, Chinese Jade and Elephants' Feet. Few members of Congress save Adam Clayton Powell of Harlem have traveled so much, and no senator has collected so much in the way of gifts and so little in the way of information.

As early as 1945, Ellender became the chief opponent to Sen. Claude Pepper's minimum-wage bill to fix the minimum at 65 cents an hour -- as compared with the proposed $1.75 an hour now.

CIVIL RIGHTS FOE

As early as 1948, Ellender first opposed civil rights in a debate with Senators Irving Ives of New York and Homer Ferguson of Michigan, both Republicans. Earlier, in 1942, a Negro Civil Defense Marshal warned the Senator from Louisiana to take refuge during an air drill and he thereupon found himself in a Negro apartment house.

Ellender has been battling against Negroes ever since. He has voted against every Civil Rights Bill plus the Negro Voting Rights Bill, and filibustered against several of them. He opposed the independence of African Negro Republics, and Home Rule for the District of Columbia. He has never wavered. And the Negroes of Louisiana in turn are not wavering in their feeling toward Ellender. They will vote against him about 99 per cent.

There are 500,000 Negroes in Louisiana, with 160,000 registered as of today. At the rate registration is now progressing, around 300,000 Negroes should be registered in time to vote when Ellender comes up for reelection next year.

Negroes are not the only opponents Ellender has. He has rolled up other opposition during his long three decades in the U. S. Senate. The man most likely to run against him is Camille Gravel, former Democratic National Committeeman from Louisiana who was kicked off the committee because he favored a civil rights plank in the Democratic platform.

NEGRO REGISTRATION

One of the most careful states in obeying the new Negro Voting Rights Law, believe it or not, is Mississippi. Reports to the Justice Department indicate that Mississippi has surpassed other states in the deep south -- with the possible exception of Georgia -- in registering Negro voters since Aug. 6, when the law was passed.

During the month before the bill was passed, 6,000 Negroes were registered in Mississippi. During the two weeks immediately following passage of the law, 12,000 Negroes were registered -- all by state, not federal, registrars.

Immediately after passage of the law, Katherine Ward, registrar in Madison County, Miss., telephoned the Justice Department.

"We are anxious to obey the law," she said, "but we have some problems in interpreting the law. One problem is whether to register illiterate Negro voters."

Miss Ward was told that Congress, in writing the law, meant to specify that if white illiterates were registered then Negro illiterates should be registered too.

Justice Department policy is not to send in Federal Registrars if a state or county is doing a reasonably good job on its own. That is why Federal Registrars have been sent to only four Mississippi counties. Two Mississippi cities, Greenville and Hattiesburg, have been doing particularly well, despite previous racial trouble in Hattiesburg.

In Forrest County, Miss., the registrar is much-headlined Theron Lynd, who was sued by the Federal Government and held in civil contempt of court for his failure to register Negroes in 1961. Today, however, Lynd has reversed this policy and began registering Negro voters even before the Voting Rights Law was passed. Since July 1 he registered 1,200 with only three rejected.

Sumter County, Ga., the scene of strife-torn Americus, has also turned the page. Five hundred Negroes were registered there over the last weekend in August.

On the other hand, registration in Alabama has been slow. This is partly because Alabama registrars operate only one day a week, though Alabama will register voters during the entire month of October.

Most stubborn opposition to Negro registration comes from Orleans is located. There the Orleans is ocated. There the local registrar, Albert P. Gallinghouse, brother of the candidate for Mayor, is being sued by Negroes to force registration.

The Department of Justice advises that Southern Negroes should test out the new Voting Rights Bill by going to the registrar's office. If they experience difficulties, Negroes are asked to inform the Justice Department. At this point civil rights experts, reinforced by the FBI, will move in.

NEW YORK AP -- Remarks a retired man gets tired of hearing:

"Gee, how I envy you—nothing to do the rest of your life but take it easy."

"Having a husband under my feet all day long makes me nervous. Sometimes I wish you were still on the job."

"Remember, you're not a kid any more."

"Herman, you're not doing anything—so why don't you go to the grocery store for me this morning? Here's the list."

"I don't see why you have to lose your temper. All I said was you'd better move your rocking chair because you are wearing a rut in the front porch."

"Won't you ever learn to act your age?"

"What really makes him fume is that not one person from the office has called to ask his advice since he left."

"Don't forget now, when he comes in tell him how young he's looking. He likes to be flattered that way."

"Herman, you retired too soon. The rumor around the office is that the boss is going to start giving a big annual Christmas bonus this year."

"Grandpa, you know Abraham Lincoln and George Washington real well, didn't you? What were they really like?"

"That gold watch they gave you is on the blink again. Do you think it's worth bothering to have it fixed?"

"What you need is a good constructive hobby to help pass the time-something like stamp collecting or bird watching."

"Well, Herman, I guess you were about the nearest thing there is to the indispensable man. They couldn't find one machine to do your work, so they've divided it between two machines."

"Don't tell me you're going to waste another afternoon watching a baseball game on television. For the life of me, I can't see what you see in them. They all look alike to me."

"Dad, you're not doing anything. Why don't you come over and take care of your grandkids while Myrtle and I spend the day at the races?"

"Mind you, I'm not complaining, dear, but if we had just half the money you frittered away on cigars the last 40 years, we'd have our own little place down in Florida instead of having to live in this grubby little apartment."

"Wake up, Herman. If you take too long a nap now, you won't be able to get a wink of sleep tonight."

"You know I'd be glad to cook it for you—but the doctor says you shouldn't eat it."

"Gosh, Herman, this is your first visit back to the office since you left, isn't it? You have no idea how much we miss you. I know the boss would love to see you, but right now he's tied up in a terribly important conference. I'll tell him you were here."

The award to Sikeston of one of nine mental retardation clinics authorized by the recent session of the state legislature speaks well for the community's appearance to outsiders as well as for its assets.

Without question Sikeston would not have been chosen as one of the sites if its facilities for medical care were inadequate.

The community is staffed by capable surgeons and doctors, has an excellent hospital and well equipped medical clinics. It maintains an air of newness, of progress and of competence in the medical field.

This is the kind of community in which the state is eager to locate the clinics because one best fits into such a city.

A proposed site adjacent to the Missouri Delta Community hospital seems to be a highly desirable location for the community's newest health care facility.

The clinic will combine the desirable aspects of a small industry and a thriving retail establishment, which draws trade. It will employ 35. Families of patients treated at the clinic will require food and lodging. They will purchase gasoline and many will shop in Sikeston stores while they are in the city.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce and Sikeston Industrial Development Corporation deserves a bow for staying with the effort to get one of the clinics located here.

It is seldom that anything worthwhile is laid in the lap of a city.

The clinic is no exception. A total of $30,000 must be raised to buy a site for a half million dollar structure to be constructed by the state.

There should be no difficulty on this score.

The return to the community will be much greater than the down payment.

NATIONAL TESTS NEXT STEP

Famous last words:

Federal aid to education need not carry with it control of education.

Editor Wes Izzard calls attention to the Associated Press report quoting a state superintendent of education attending a conference in Washington as laying 2 to 1 odds that "we'll have national testing within five years, and the start of a national curriculum dictated by Washington within ten years."

A second prominent educator is reported to have advised: "Don't take the bet. The tests are being drawn up now."

The least effect of federal control of education would be conformity in what is taught and the way it is taught.

The worst effect would be the out-right political dictation of curriculum and method.

You may insist this is not possible now, or in the next administration. But what about the one after that--or the one 50 years from now?

The road to hell has been paved with good intentions, but the American people must be careful of Big Daddy government whether it is in education or individual freedom.

Give an inch and the socialist pushers will take a mile.

SEPTEMBER PLANTING

Across the flat black country fields the dark verdancy begins to peel away as harvest reaps the bounty of earth, rain and sun in the age-old ritual. The dense line of trees along a dry creek bed fades from bright green to pale. And up the rolling slopes of crusty hardscrabble land a vast veil of searing yellow sparkles as the wild blossoms wave in a warm September breeze.

The young birds of summer twitter of trips to winter hideaways and crickets sing a dirge for the passing summer season.

Nature again has produced, and sits back to watch the bending boughs drop their seeds that the circle of life and death may roll forward yet another year. Man plants in spring, but now in September it is seedtime for the untended trees and grasses.

Approaching autumn divided the poets of yesteryear. Or did they ever agree? "Where are the songs of spring?" was the plaintive cry of young JOHN KEATS. "Ay, where are they?" But the unmerry Englishman was answered by a German by the name of LUDWIG HOLTY who shed no tears as he observed: "Sickles ring, maidens sing to the sickle's sound. . .harvest songs go round."

And so it must be, for the seed falls and sings into the hungry earth the memory of summer becomes a promise of its return. "In all my autumn dreams a future summer gleans," wrote GEORGE ARNOLD, "passing the fairest glories of the present!"

THE 14(B) SITUATION

Assuming that the Senate is going to echo the House on repeal of Section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley Act is out of date.

In the House there was a steam roller attitude against amendments. But a considerable feeling is developing around the country, and being urged upon senators, for modification. An example was published in Letters to the Editor, in Sunday's issue of THE COMMERCIAL APPEAL.

It was a copy of a letter to Senator ALBERT GORE (D., Tenn.) from MARTIN J. CONDON III, former president of the Tennessee Manufacturers' Association. Mr. CONDON urges support of the amendment which would require a vote by secret ballot on choice of a union before any union could obtain a contract with a closed shop or union shop clause.

This is the clause that requires a worker to join the union or lose his job. But some unions have obtained a contract without ever being named by the workers in a secret ballot. They have attained bargaining agency power only on a count of authorization cards, which are sometimes gathered with face-to-face pressure.

Aside from the push for these amendments there is increasing possibility of the Senate stopping the whole repeal procedure. Late last week it developed that 25 senators are ready to filibuster. They include EVERETT DIRKSEN (R., Ill.), leader of the Republican members who often support the Johnson Administration.

Another kind of vote difference is looming ahead. If any method of defeating or delaying repeal works for the next two weeks, the whole thing probably will go over until next year and that will be election year for every member of the House.

President JOHNSON has obtained most of the things he wanted in Congress this year. Under best of conditions it is a danger year for congressmen who rode the coat tails of the presidential campaigning, expecially those who have become conspicuous by following the Johnson recommendations so closely.

In Tennessee, for instance the only House votes for repeal of 14(b) came from GEORGE GRIDER of Memphis, WILLIAM ANDERSON of Waverly and RICHARD FULTON of Nashville.

In the tradition of FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT, the President is likely to ease up after a year of obtaining many changes and undertake to sooth the voting public. That could mean a letdown that turns out some members in both houses.

PEARL HARBOR HINDSIGHT

In his novel, Hawaii, James Michener describes the delivery of a telegram on December 7, 1941: "At 4:31 that hot, terrifying afternoon Shigeo Sakagawa reached the end of his route, and he pedaled his Cable Wireless bicycle up the long drive leading to the residence of General Lansing Hommer, where the ashen-faced military leader took the cable and scribbled his name across the receipt.

"His command had been virtually destroyed. The islands he was supposed to protect were at the mercy of the enemy. Even his own headquarters had been strafed with impunity. At the end of the debacle he was forced to receive cables from Washington, but this particular one was more than he could stomach.

"He read it, swore, crumpled it up and threw it on the floor. As it slowly unfolded itself, Shig could read that it had come from the War Department. It warned General Hommer that Japan might attempt to attack Pearl Harbor.

"With all the instantaneous systems of communications available to the government, Washington could have rushed the message through in time to prevent the holocaust, but it had transmitted this most urgent of contemporary cables by ordinary commercial wireless. It arrived ten hours late, delivered on bicycle by a Japanese messenger boy."

Unlike the trends for most other diseases, the mortality rate from peptic ulcer has been rising among women but decreasing among men, statisticians report.

A study of the experience among the company's industrial policyholders show that the contrasting trends are especially marked for ulcer of the stomach.

The statisticians observed that there was a 20 per cent reduction in mortality from stomach ulcer among white men aged 35 to 74 in the past decade. In contrast, the death rate among white women in the same age range rose by 26 per cent. A similar, though less striking change, is seen in the mortality trends from ulcer of the duodenum. For men the mortality rate was down by 1 per cent, while among females it increased by 14 per cent.

Although the sex difference in peptic ulcer mortality trends is narrowing, men still record a very much higher death rate. Among insured men at ages 35 to 74 it was 4 1/2 times that among women. Even at ages 65 to 74, where the disparity is lowest, the ratio is nearly 4 to 1, the statisticians noted.

The relative importance of the two sites of ulcer has changed appreciably as a result of the differences in trend. Among men in this insurance experience, the death rate from stomach ulcer was one-sixth higher than that from duodenal ulcer in 1950-52. Now, however the situation is reversed, with duodenal ulcer showing a slightly higher mortality rate.

Peptic ulcer is a significant national health problem , the statisticians concluded. In 1962, about 12,000 deaths in the general population of the United States were attributed to the disease. Peptic ulcer, moreover, is also responsible for a considerable amount of illness and disability. It is estimated from data collected by the National Health Survey that about 2 1/2 million persons in the country have peptic ulcer, and that more than 450,000 patients are hospitalized for it each year.

CHALLENGE TO ALL OF US

One of the largest single grants ever given by individual donors to a college was announced when DeWitt and Lila Wallace, co-founders and co-publishers of The Reader's Digest, gave $10 million to Macalester College of St. Paul, Minn.

Although multi-million dollar gifts to colleges by individuals are not uncommon, the Wallaces' grant brings to a total of $25 million their gifts to Macalester and probably sets a record for individual giving to a school of its size. This liberal arts college has an enrollment of approximately 1600 students.

What interests us more about the gift than its amount, however, is the manner in which it is being given. It is a "challenge gift": that is, Macalester will get the money only if it can raise an equivalent amount by itself.

The college has risen to the challenge by announcing a $32 million capital building program for the next ten years. President Harvey Rice asserted his "complete confidence" that the goals of the program would be achieved by the time of the college's centennial celebration in 1974.

What a strong rebuttal this is to those who cry that education's only hope is for massive Government support! Here is a small school in a relatively small community able to formulate an enormously ambitious program and eagerly accept the challenge offered by a matching-grant donor.

Mr. Wallace said when he announced the grant: "Mrs. Wallace and I believe no other investment yields greater dividends of satisfaction than one made in behalf of liberal arts colleges. We hope that our significant challenge will encourage others to participate more actively in the affairs of not only Macalester, but other educational institutions as well."

It seems to us that in his challenging gift to Macalester, Mr. Wallace has also thrown down the gauntlet before those of his fellow citizens who are content to let the Government take over control of education.

This gift should remind every one of us that our future and our continued freedoms are largely in the hands of our institutions of higher learning. They need and deserve wholehearted individual support -- and we need them to be strong and independent.

EIGHT MAGIC WORDS--

Henry Ford didn't give many speeches during his lifetime. Many years ago he was persuaded to speak to a group of teenage boys who had been assembled at Greenfield Village from all over the United States. These boys were the most promising young men of the country, some of whom could be expected to become the Fords and Edisons of the future.

Ford gave his speech when the movies were first beginning to talk and the speech has been saved for posterity. I saw and heard the speech while attending a recent meeting at Greenfield Village. The speech was given in nineteen twenty-eight. That's thirty-five years ago. Just before the great depression. I wonder what has happened to the boys who heard it.

The speech consisted of just eight words. Ford stepped to the rostrum, thanked the chairman, President Herbert Hoover, turned to the audience and said: "There is no such thing as no chance!"

PATHWAY OF GOLD

Every year when autumn rolls around again I think of a walk my wife and I took one October along an old tote road in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan. The ground was completely covered with golden leaves. It was as though we were walking along a street of gold.

Of course, we remarked about the traditional heaven with its streets of gold, and we both agreed that nature is certainly in close second place to any heaven that there may be beyond this earth. We've been in the mountains of New England in the autumn when the maples were like men marching upward with flaming torches. We have seen rainbows in waterfalls. We have watched the clouds when they have taken the form of towers and castles. We have seen the miracle of the midnight sun beyond the Arctic Circle.

There is heaven on earth. We've seen it!

Dr. Marshall Says

Our Father who art in Heaven, hallowed be Thy name. Thy Kingdom come. Thy Will be done on earth as it is in Heaven.

Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us.

And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil, for Thine is the Kingdon and the Power and the Glory, forever and ever. Amen.

H. L. Hunt Says

WHO STANDS FOR LIBERTY?

The land is full of "bold new programs" by government; the air is full of the enthusiastic voices of the planners for government; more and more the chosen road of the ambitious is not personal production but the manipulation of power through government.

Questions are still raised; criticism is still heard. But most of the time it revolves around mere details. Should we use this plan or that plan? Should we make government twice as big this year, or wait five years? The debaters take it for granted that the massive trend of the times toward more and more government is both desirable and inevitable. In the midst of this turmoil of the power-seekers and the power-users, who stands for liberty?

Liberty does not mean absence of government. Liberty does not mean an irresponsible policy of instant destruction of existing government programs on which people have come to rely. Liberty does not mean opposition simply for opposition's sake.

A true love of liberty will impel us to ask questions, not about how the innumerable "bold new programs" of government are to be carried out, but what their real effects will be on individual freedom. No matter how often these vital questions may seem to be drowned out by the chanting of mindless slogans such as "extremism," "super - patriotism," and others, those American who love liberty and their heritage will continue to ask them.

Whether we agree or disagree, we would do well to hearken to their voices; for it is the voice of the conscience of Americans.

NEW YORK AP -- Remarks a retired man gets tired of hearing:

"Gee, how I envy you—nothing to do the rest of your life but take it easy."

"Having a husband under my feet all day long makes me nervous. Sometimes I wish you were still on the job."

"Remember, you're not a kid any more."

"Herman, you're not doing anything—so why don't you go to the grocery store for me this morning? Here's the list."

"I don't see why you have to lose your temper. All I said was you'd better move your rocking chair because you are wearing a rut in the front porch."

"Won't you ever learn to act your age?"

"What really makes him fume is that not one person from the office has called to ask his advice since he left."

"Don't forget now, when he comes in tell him how young he's looking. He likes to be flattered that way."

"Herman, you retired too soon. The rumor around the office is that the boss is going to start giving a big annual Christmas bonus this year."

"Grandpa, you know Abraham Lincoln and George Washington real well, didn't you? What were they really like?"

"That gold watch they gave you is on the blink again. Do you think it's worth bothering to have it fixed?"

"What you need is a good constructive hobby to help pass the time-something like stamp collecting or bird watching."

"Well, Herman, I guess you were about the nearest thing there is to the indispensable man. They couldn't find one machine to do your work, so they've divided it between two machines."

"Don't tell me you're going to waste another afternoon watching a baseball game on television. For the life of me, I can't see what you see in them. They all look alike to me."

"Dad, you're not doing anything. Why don't you come over and take care of your grandkids while Myrtle and I spend the day at the races?"

"Mind you, I'm not complaining, dear, but if we had just half the money you frittered away on cigars the last 40 years, we'd have our own little place down in Florida instead of having to live in this grubby little apartment."

"Wake up, Herman. If you take too long a nap now, you won't be able to get a wink of sleep tonight."

"You know I'd be glad to cook it for you—but the doctor says you shouldn't eat it."

"Gosh, Herman, this is your first visit back to the office since you left, isn't it? You have no idea how much we miss you. I know the boss would love to see you, but right now he's tied up in a terribly important conference. I'll tell him you were here."

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- At the rate Negro registration is going in the south, the first major political casualty is likely to be gnarled, despotic Allen Ellender, the senior senator from Louisiana.

Ellender came to Washington almost thirty years ago as the successor to the famed Louisiana "Kingfish" Huey Long, whose son Russell is now the junior senator from that state. At that time, Ellender was so down to earth that he won the nickname "Potatoes" and so full of beans that this column in 1937 awarded him the brass ring.

In his long career since, Ellender has chalked up some constructive landmarks for himself and the nation. He was an inveterate foe for McCarthyism at a time when the late Senator from Wisconsin was in his heyday. He was co-author of the first Public Housing Bill, along with Bob Wagner of New York and Bob Taft of Ohio. He introduced the first Aid-to-Education Bill and early sponsored the school lunch program.

But as the years have passed, the Senator from Louisiana has moved further from the people, closer to big business, and has seemed more interested in junketing abroad and looking out for Allen Ellender than in looking out for the interests of Louisiana voters.

On his many trips abroad, Ellender has collected a personal museum ranging from African spears to Babylonian Earthenware, Chinese Jade and Elephants' Feet. Few members of Congress save Adam Clayton Powell of Harlem have traveled so much, and no senator has collected so much in the way of gifts and so little in the way of information.

As early as 1945, Ellender became the chief opponent to Sen. Claude Pepper's minimum-wage bill to fix the minimum at 65 cents an hour -- as compared with the proposed $1.75 an hour now.

CIVIL RIGHTS FOE

As early as 1948, Ellender first opposed civil rights in a debate with Senators Irving Ives of New York and Homer Ferguson of Michigan, both Republicans. Earlier, in 1942, a Negro Civil Defense Marshal warned the Senator from Louisiana to take refuge during an air drill and he thereupon found himself in a Negro apartment house.

Ellender has been battling against Negroes ever since. He has voted against every Civil Rights Bill plus the Negro Voting Rights Bill, and filibustered against several of them. He opposed the independence of African Negro Republics, and Home Rule for the District of Columbia. He has never wavered. And the Negroes of Louisiana in turn are not wavering in their feeling toward Ellender. They will vote against him about 99 per cent.

There are 500,000 Negroes in Louisiana, with 160,000 registered as of today. At the rate registration is now progressing, around 300,000 Negroes should be registered in time to vote when Ellender comes up for reelection next year.

Negroes are not the only opponents Ellender has. He has rolled up other opposition during his long three decades in the U. S. Senate. The man most likely to run against him is Camille Gravel, former Democratic National Committeeman from Louisiana who was kicked off the committee because he favored a civil rights plank in the Democratic platform.

NEGRO REGISTRATION

One of the most careful states in obeying the new Negro Voting Rights Law, believe it or not, is Mississippi. Reports to the Justice Department indicate that Mississippi has surpassed other states in the deep south -- with the possible exception of Georgia -- in registering Negro voters since Aug. 6, when the law was passed.

During the month before the bill was passed, 6,000 Negroes were registered in Mississippi. During the two weeks immediately following passage of the law, 12,000 Negroes were registered -- all by state, not federal, registrars.

Immediately after passage of the law, Katherine Ward, registrar in Madison County, Miss., telephoned the Justice Department.

"We are anxious to obey the law," she said, "but we have some problems in interpreting the law. One problem is whether to register illiterate Negro voters."

Miss Ward was told that Congress, in writing the law, meant to specify that if white illiterates were registered then Negro illiterates should be registered too.

Justice Department policy is not to send in Federal Registrars if a state or county is doing a reasonably good job on its own. That is why Federal Registrars have been sent to only four Mississippi counties. Two Mississippi cities, Greenville and Hattiesburg, have been doing particularly well, despite previous racial trouble in Hattiesburg.

In Forrest County, Miss., the registrar is much-headlined Theron Lynd, who was sued by the Federal Government and held in civil contempt of court for his failure to register Negroes in 1961. Today, however, Lynd has reversed this policy and began registering Negro voters even before the Voting Rights Law was passed. Since July 1 he registered 1,200 with only three rejected.

Sumter County, Ga., the scene of strife-torn Americus, has also turned the page. Five hundred Negroes were registered there over the last weekend in August.

On the other hand, registration in Alabama has been slow. This is partly because Alabama registrars operate only one day a week, though Alabama will register voters during the entire month of October.

Most stubborn opposition to Negro registration comes from Orleans is located. There the Orleans is ocated. There the local registrar, Albert P. Gallinghouse, brother of the candidate for Mayor, is being sued by Negroes to force registration.

The Department of Justice advises that Southern Negroes should test out the new Voting Rights Bill by going to the registrar's office. If they experience difficulties, Negroes are asked to inform the Justice Department. At this point civil rights experts, reinforced by the FBI, will move in.

Rita Lynn Smith Pledges Vows With Clayton Howard

On Saturday, August 28, at 8 o'clock in the evening at First Baptist Church in Poplar Bluff, Miss Rita Lynn Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Edward Smith of Poplar Bluff and formerly of Sikeston, became the bride of Clayton L. Howard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Howard of Noel.

The Reverend John Wright read the vows of the double ring ceremony before a setting of large baskets of white gladioli and two candelabrum trees. The bridal aisle was lined with single candelabra tied with white satin bows. A white prie dieu completed the nuptial background.

The lovely bride was escorted down the white carpeted bridal aisle and given in marriage by her father. She wore a white floor-length gown styled with a pencil slim skirt of embossed cotton brocade. The bodice was fashioned with long sleeves ending in points at the hands and a scooped neckline. The skirt was enhanced with a detachable train that fell from the waistline. Her elbow-length veil of illusion was attached to a satin pillbox hat embroidered with seed pearls. The former Miss Smith carried a cascade arrangement of white roses on a white Bible. The flowers were tied with ribbons that flowed from the arrangement. The streamers were tied in lovers' knots.

Mrs. Ralph Lee, organist, accompanied Ervin Keathley, soloist, as he sang "One Hand, One Heart" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Miss Shirley Adams of Sikeston, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Linda Bounds and Rita Robinson, both of Poplar Bluff and Kim Harden of Newburg, N. Y. Candlelighters were Cindy Smith, sister of the bride, and Mark Adams of Sikeston, cousin of the bride.

Little Miss Vicki Lea Smith, sister of the bride, served as flower girl.

The attendants were attired in floor - length gowns of crepe styled with skirts of candlelight joined to American Beauty Rose bodices that were accented at the Empire waistlines with French lace. They wore white gloves and tinted peau de soie shoes. Their headpieces were large cabbage roses of American Beauty Rose color encircled with a nose-tip veil.

The maid of honor carried a bouquet of long-stemmed roses tied with ribbons of American Beauty and the arrangement was enhanced with baby rose buds. The bridesmaids each carried a single red rose.

The candlelighter, Miss Cindy Smith, wore a floor-length gown with a candlelight peau de soie Empire waistline and featuring an American Beauty velvet ribbon at the waistline with a bow and streamers draping down the front.

The flower girl was attired identically to the candlelighter. She carried a small basket of white rose petals. Her basket was tied with pink ribbon.

Larry Burge of Sulphur Springs, Ark., served as best man. Groomsmen were Fred Stewart of Springfield, Edward Smith, brother of the bride, and Richard Adams of Cape Girardeau, cousin of the bride. Richard Adams and Edward Smith were ushers.

The bride's mother wore a beige lace over moucha taffeta dress complemented with mucha gloves and shoes. A pink tulle pill box hat and pink camellias completed her attire.

Mrs. Howard chose for her son's wedding an ice blue two piece lace suit. She wore white accessories and white camellias.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church social room. The bride's table was covered in pink linen and overlaid with lace. An arrangement of red roses centered the table. Crystal candelabrum holding rose candles appointed the table. A three tiered wedding cake and crystal punch service also appointed the table.

Mrs. Charles Baker and Mrs. Walker Long were in charge of serving at the reception. They were assisted by Miss Myrna Warren, Miss Susan Walker, Miss Lynn Long and Miss Charlene Lane. Miss Jackie Shelton was in charge of the guest register.

The newly wed couple took a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination. For traveling, the new Mrs. Howard chose a white linen sheath dress with a navy finger-tip coat and red ascot. She wore a corsage of white roses and red accessories completed her attire.

The couple will make their home at Neosho.

The former Miss Smith is a student at Southwest Missouri State College in Springfield. Mr. Howard is a student and pastor of First Methodist Church in Hart.

Out-of-town guests attending the Smith - Howard Wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Van Denton of Parma, grandparents of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Evans and David, Mr. and Mrs. Dewavon Adams and daughters, Miss Judy Grimes, Mr. and Mrs. Beatty Miller and Joe Bean, all of Sikeston; Miss Darlene Hickerson of Little Rock, Ark., David Johnson and Miss Nancy Johnson of Alton, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Howard of Kennett.

Modern Christian

Are Christian communities over-organized?

In some cases this may be true, but organization is the allotment of responsibility and work. The Christian community has a wealth of talent that must be made use of by organizations within the community itself. Its chief 'talent' is Jesus Christ. Its maximum of expression is the Christian person, and this expression is greatly magnified where there is a team effort.

The waters of Niagara give light and heat to homes because of powerful hydroelectric reservoirs. Once electric power is produced the lighting of all New York City is based upon proper organization and connecting units.

Christ is the light of men. It is indispensable that each Christian accept his share of the task in transmitting that light to his family and community.

The man to whom light is offered is still free to refuse it, but it has been put within his reach. This is the duty of both engineer and Christian.

Division of work implies organizing. Steam is nothing but vapor as long as we merely set water boiling. It acquires value only when properly conducted to achieve a particular goal.

Organizations within the Christian comminity shou'd have a framework of activities that are flexible and diversified, and leaving wide play for personal initiative.

Not everyone can be asked to devote the same amount of time to a certain specialized work. Yet, no one has the right to shirk his Christian responsibilities or some small share of coordinated activity.

The rich man, in a burst of generosity, may give his money to the poor, but he may also set up a factory and provide work for them. If this is the motive of his action with small profit to himself, he loves his neighbor. He has organized his talents.

Christ selected certain men to work very closely with him; Paul wrote of the varied talents. It is simply part of human nature to work together--not alone.

Sikeston High Bulldogs Begin 1965 Football Campaign

Predict Rain For Tiff With Chaffee

An expected capacity crowd may brave rain to get a first look at the 1965 Sikeston high school Bulldogs, who square off against non-conference foe Chaffee tonight at 7:30. The game will be played in public schools stadium. PICK UP 8 PT

Coach Bill Sapp, who heads into his 13th year as Sikeston mentor has expressed some displeasure over this year's Dog unit. The backfield, he said, is smaller and slower than last year's.

Ronnie Spears, who will be holding down the quarterback chores tonight, 'understands the game and is a good leader,' Sapp said. But his passing leaves something to be desired so Sikeston will stay close to the ground. Spears is 6-0 and weighs 140.

Fullback Terry Scudder, the fastest man in the backfield, will handle many of the ball carrying chores. At 166, Scudder stands 5-10.

The Bulldog line, paced by 210-pound tackle Dave Burns and Tom Henzi, a 192-pounder, has good potential, Sapp said. 'We've got good size,' he related 'and with some hustle from the boys, this line could develop into being as good--at least--as last year's.'

Defensively, the Bulldogs will use Scudder at left half, Jim Littleton at left tackle, Mike Garner in the fullback slot, and Mike Boardman as a safety man. All are seniors with the exception of Mike Garner, a sophomore.

In his third season at Chaffee, coach Gene McClanahan has a football squad of 40, including 10 returning lettermen.

Experience should be no problem with the teams and particularly the heavy line. 'We've got five boys back on this year's line, 'he said,' who've got both weight and experience.'

The line's lightest man, center Joe Richbourg, weighs 160. Guards George Beck and Tom Miller weigh in at 175 and 190, respectively, and tackle Danny Lynn's 210 pounds and tackle Mike Wessel's 190 pounds add some beef to the Red Devil defense.

Speedy quarterback Bob Daughtery, who racks up the 100-yard dash in 10.2, is expected to call a ground game. In his backfield, he has fullback Gary Daniels, a 165-pounder, along with halfbacks Joe Rice and David Richbourg.

Last year the Red Devils were 3-5-1 including a season opening 34-0 loss to Sikeston. The Bulldogs, returning conference co-champions, own an overall 29-6-1 posting against the Chaffee eleven.

Koufax Pitches Perfect No-Hit Game Against Cubs

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It was Sandy Koufax' finest hour — a perfect game and the fourth no-hitter of his major league career.

He retired all 27 batters to face him as the Dodgers bested the Chicago Cubs and the one-hit pitching of southpaw Bob Hendley, 1-0, before a crowd of 29,139 thursday night, Koufax struck out the last six batters in a row and 14 in all.

But though the baseball world hailed Koufax and his historic victory — the first time in the majors that a pitcher achieved a fourth no-hit game — Koufax himself shrugged it off as not quite his best game.

His opponents found it hard to agree.

Koufax has always felt that his third no-hitter, the one he pitched last season at Philadelphia, was the best game of his career.

"I had the best fast ball in the last three innings that I've had all year and also the best control," said the 29-year-old lefthander after Thursday's game at Dodger Stadium, "but the no-hitter at Philadelphia was equally big."

"He was just great — it was beautiful," said Chicago veteran Ernie Banks. "He was getting the curve over real good the first five innings, then he got tremendous momentum. I thought he might weaken some later on, but he just kept throwing the ball right on through. And he was throwing strikes."

Sandy Koufax' perfect game — and fourth no-hitter — kept the Los Angeles Dodgers in a tie for second place and kept Koufax one step ahead of San Francisco's Juan Marichal in the battle for most victories in the National League.

Marichal won No. 21 in a day game at San Francisco, keeping the Giants in first place as he checked Houston on four hits in a 4-0 victory. It was the 10th shutout of the season for Marichal.

Then Koufax went out and pitched his perfect game against the Chicago Cubs in a 1-0 victory, posting his 22nd victory of the season — and his first after three straight losses since Aug. 14.

Marichal's triumph kept the Giants one-half game ahead of the Dodgers and Cincinnati Reds who remained in a tie for second place with a 3-2 victory over the New York Mets. Fourth-place Milwaukee fell 2½ games back after being rained out of a game against Philadelphia.

In the American League, Minnesota walloped the Chicago White Sox 10-4 and California whipped Kansas City 7-2.

The Giants, winning their sixth straight, jumped into a two-run lead in the second inning on a walk to Willie McCovey, a triple by Len Gabrielson and Tom Haller's sacrifice fly.

Haller hit a homer in the fifth and the Giants closed out the scoring in the same inning when Dick Schofield doubled and scored on Jesus Alou's single to deep short.

The Dodgers, who collected only one hit off Bob Hendley, scored in the fifth inning when Lou Johnson walked, was sacrificed to second, stole third and came around on the play when catcher Chris Krug threw wild.

The Reds pulled into a 2-0 lead on Deron Johnson's homer in the fourth inning but the Mets tied in it the eighth on Roy McMillan's two-run single. Tony Perez then won it for Cincinnati with two out in the ninth when he lofted a homer over the center field wall.

Twins Heading Toward Flag After Defeating Sox

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Minnesota Twins, riding high in the saddle, appear past the final hurdle as they head for their first American League pennant since the club was moved to the Midwest.

The Twins have a fat seven-game edge over second place Chicago today following a two-game sweep of the White Sox. Each club has 19 games remaining and any combination of 13 Minnesota victories or Chicago defeats, delivers the flag to the Twins.

Third-place Baltimore, 7 1/2 games back, actually is better off statistically than the White Sox. The Orioles have 22 games left and Minnesota needs any combination of 14 victories and Oriole defeats to end Baltimore's chances.

And not only do the Twins have that fat lead, but 14 of their remaining 19 games are against the American League's second division. Minnesota plays five against Baltimore, but that's more than balanced by five against California and three each against Boston, Washington and Kansas City.

Jimmie Hall, who homered in each game, was the hero of the sweep against the White Sox. The Twins squeeked by Wednesday night, 3-2, and then whacked four Chicago pitchers for a 10-4 decision Thursday.

In the only other American League game Thursday, California defeated Kansas City 7-2.

In the National League, Sandy Koufax pitched a perfect game --the fourth no-hitter of his career -- as Los Angeles blanked Chicago 1-0. It was only the third perfect game in National League history and made Koufax the first pitcher ever to hurl four no-hitters.

Tony Perez' ninth inning homer gave Cincinnati a 3-2 decision over New York. And Philadelphia's game at Milwaukee was rained out.

Hall whacked three hits including his 20th homer for the Twins who sprayed 15 hits around Comiskey Park. Sandy Valdespino also had three safeties for the Twins.

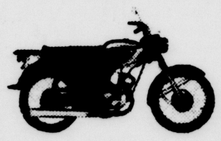

Willie Smith was the hero for California, unloading a bases-loaded double that drove in three runs against the Athletics. Bobby Knoop had three hits and Ed Kirkpatrick a home run as Fred Newman cruised to his 12th victory.

Last year the Red Devils were 3-5-1 including a season opening 34-0 loss to Sikeston. The Bulldogs, returning conference co-champions, own an overall 29-6-1 posting against the Chaffee eleven.

Koufax Pitches Perfect No-Hit Game Against Cubs

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It was Sandy Koufax' finest hour — a perfect game and the fourth no-hitter of his major league career.

He retired all 27 batters to face him as the Dodgers bested the Chicago Cubs and the one-hit pitching of southpaw Bob Hendley, 1-0, before a crowd of 29,139 thursday night, Koufax struck out the last six batters in a row and 14 in all.

But though the baseball world hailed Koufax and his historic victory — the first time in the majors that a pitcher achieved a fourth no-hit game — Koufax himself shrugged it off as not quite his best game.

His opponents found it hard to agree.

Koufax has always felt that his third no-hitter, the one he pitched last season at Philadelphia, was the best game of his career.

"I had the best fast ball in the last three innings that I've had all year and also the best control," said the 29-year-old lefthander after Thursday's game at Dodger Stadium, "but the no-hitter at Philadelphia was equally big."

"He was just great — it was beautiful," said Chicago veteran Ernie Banks. "He was getting the curve over real good the first five innings, then he got tremendous momentum. I thought he might weaken some later on, but he just kept throwing the ball right on through. And he was throwing strikes."

Sandy Koufax' perfect game — and fourth no-hitter — kept the Los Angeles Dodgers in a tie for second place and kept Koufax one step ahead of San Francisco's Juan Marichal in the battle for most victories in the National League.

Marichal won No. 21 in a day game at San Francisco, keeping the Giants in first place as he checked Houston on four hits in a 4-0 victory. It was the 10th shutout of the season for Marichal.

Then Koufax went out and pitched his perfect game against the Chicago Cubs in a 1-0 victory, posting his 22nd victory of the season — and his first after three straight losses since Aug. 14.

Marichal's triumph kept the Giants one-half game ahead of the Dodgers and Cincinnati Reds who remained in a tie for second place with a 3-2 victory over the New York Mets. Fourth-place Milwaukee fell 2½ games back after being rained out of a game against Philadelphia.

In the American League, Minnesota walloped the Chicago White Sox 10-4 and California whipped Kansas City 7-2.

The Giants, winning their sixth straight, jumped into a two-run lead in the second inning on a walk to Willie McCovey, a triple by Len Gabrielson and Tom Haller's sacrifice fly.

Haller hit a homer in the fifth and the Giants closed out the scoring in the same inning when Dick Schofield doubled and scored on Jesus Alou's single to deep short.

The Dodgers, who collected only one hit off Bob Hendley, scored in the fifth inning when Lou Johnson walked, was sacrificed to second, stole third and came around on the play when catcher Chris Krug threw wild.

The Reds pulled into a 2-0 lead on Deron Johnson's homer in the fourth inning but the Mets tied in it the eighth on Roy McMillan's two-run single. Tony Perez then won it for Cincinnati with two out in the ninth when he lofted a homer over the center field wall.

Twins Heading Toward Flag After Defeating Sox

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Minnesota Twins, riding high in the saddle, appear past the final hurdle as they head for their first American League pennant since the club was moved to the Midwest.

The Twins have a fat seven-game edge over second place Chicago today following a two-game sweep of the White Sox. Each club has 19 games remaining and any combination of 13 Minnesota victories or Chicago defeats, delivers the flag to the Twins.

Third - place Baltimore, 7 1/2 games back, actually is better off statistically than the White Sox. The Orioles have 22 games left and Minnesota needs any combination of 14 victories and Oriole defeats to end Baltimore's chances.

And not only do the Twins have that fat lead, but 14 of their remaining 19 games are against the American League's second division. Minnesota plays five against Baltimore, but that's more than balanced by five against California and three each against Boston, Washington and Kansas City.

Jimmie Hall, who homered in each game, was the hero of the sweep against the White Sox. The Twins squeeked by Wednesday night, 3-2, and then whacked four Chicago pitchers for a 10-4 decision Thursday.

In the only other American League game Thursday, California defeated Kansas City 7-2.

In the National League, Sandy Koufax pitched a perfect game --the fourth no-hitter of his career -- as Los Angeles blanked Chicago 1-0. It was only the third perfect game in National League history and made Koufax the first pitcher ever to hurl four no-hitters.

Tony Perez' ninth inning homer gave Cincinnati a 3-2 decision over New York. And Philadelphia's game at Milwaukee was rained out.

Hall whacked three hits including his 20th homer for the Twins who sprayed 15 hits around Comiskey Park. Sandy Valdespino also had three safeties for the Twins.

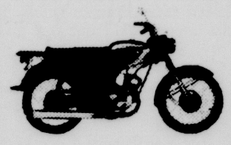

Willie Smith was the hero for California, unloading a bases-loaded double that drove in three runs against the Athletics. Bobby Knoop had three hits and Ed Kirkpatrick a home run as Fred Newman cruised to his 12th victory.

Malden School Stop Signs Removed

MALDEN -- School stop signs on highway 25 at West Park street and near the Pepsi-Cola Bottling plant were removed last week by maintenance workers of the state highway department.

The action brought cries of alarm from parents of school age children. City and school officials stated that they knew nothing about the disappearance of the signs.

The signs have been placed in the crosswalks in the center of the highway for many years by the police department. They have been allowed to stand from 7 a.m. to 9 a.m., 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., and 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Judson Willis of the maintenance department of the state highway department at Sikeston said that the signs were removed on instructions from his department.

He said that letters had been mailed to Malden school officials and city officials last May that Malden must conform with a new policy established by the state highway department in 1964. Willis said that he did not receive a reply until August after a second letter was sent out.

Willis said that this new manner of handling school stop areas came about in 1964. He said that the policy of the state highway department is that where a location is hazardous enough for a stop sign that adult supervision is needed. He said that it is up to the city and school to provide this supervision.

Alva DaVault, superintendent of Malden schools, said that he did not receive any correspondence from the state highway department last May and that the first he knew of the change in systems was a few days ago when he received a letter.

Mayor R. J. Dirks said that the City of Malden received a letter from the state highway department, but was awaiting a meeting with a state highway department official before taking any action.

"We contacted the state highway department office at Sikeston and they promised to send a representative to Malden to discuss the matter, but he has never shown up," said Dirks.

Willis said that as soon as the city and school conforms with their requests that the state highway department will send workmen here to paint crosswalks and warning signs. He said that the unattended signs were more hazardous than if none at all are used.

DaVault said that the school has signed the agreement per the request and it has been forwarded to the state highway department. "I don't know where we will get the money to pay the attendants, but apparently we are forced to do it," said DaVault.

In the meantime Mayor Dirks and Chief of Police R. M. Thompson have installed a city-owned stop sign in the crosswalk at West Park. "The state highway department may pick it up again, but we'll keep putting more out until we get this problem settled," said Dirks. "We have an obligation to our children to protect them as much as possible."

Mayor Dirks said that the school has temporarily placed attendants in the area near Lee's Grocery and the Pepsi-Cola plant.

Black Birds Stage Return

DEXTER -- It's been a good summer in a lot of ways -- but as the old saying goes, "All good things must come to an end."

And we think that this "good" summer just came to an end 'cause the black birds are back.

Now just how many returned we couldn't say, since we din't count them but the flock looks just as healthy as it did last year and the year before and the year before that.

Other than being the autumn of 1965 rather than 1964, little else has changed. The roost is still there, the feed that the birds will consume during coming winter months will once again be lost to farmers, the fact that these birds are dirty, disease carrying varmints is still a fact, etc., etc., etc.

Of course, since last year, we have become known as bird city -- and we always wonder if they mean black-bird or if they attach the word "cuckoo" at least mentally to their summation of "bird city".

Oh well, it's been a long and hot summer and at least the birds will offer something new in conversation--and besides, it's good exercise to run to the clothesline with your laundry after the birds fly over in the morning and dash out just before they return at night.

And who wants to leave a clean washed car out in the drive anyway?

Fertility & Sterility

THE FINAL BARRIER

If these difficulties are overcome and some sperm reach an ovum, the armor of the egg itself must be breached. The armor consists, first, of an outer coating of a substance known as fertilizin, which attracts sperm. But here again nature presents an obstacle. On the surface of sperm is a substance called anti-fertilizin. When one combines with the other, the sperm clump and lose their penetrating power. They are trapped, so to speak, by the guard at the moat. Since there is always some dissolved fertilizin in the liquid that engulfs an egg, sperm might never reach it, but nature's surplus again proves invaluable. The excess numbers mop up the dissolved fertilizin so that at least one non-neutralized sperm can confront the egg.

The final barrier is a tough inner membrane which is held together by a glue-like substance, hyaluronic acid. Sperm contain a complementary substance, an enzyme known as hyaluronidase, which dissolves the glue. Interestingly, the ability of various disease-causing organisms (and reptile venoms) to invade tissues and spread their infections is dependent on their production of this enzyme. As hyaluronidase breaks down the cement of the membrane, sperm slip through the cracks and enter.

And so the egg is fertilized. Conception has cleared the natural obstacle course.

MALDEN -- School stop signs on highway 25 at West Park street and near the Pepsi-Cola Bottling plant were removed last week by maintenance workers of the state highway department.

The action brought cries of alarm from parents of school age children. City and school officials stated that they knew nothing about the disappearance of the signs.

The signs have been placed in the crosswalks in the center of the highway for many years by the police department. They have been allowed to stand from 7 a.m. to 9 a.m., 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., and 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Judson Willis of the maintenance department of the state highway department at Sikeston said that the signs were removed on instructions from his department.

He said that letters had been mailed to Malden school officials and city officials last May that Malden must conform with a new policy established by the state highway department in 1964. Willis said that he did not receive a reply until August after a second letter was sent out.

Willis said that this new manner of handling school stop areas came about in 1964. He said that the policy of the state highway department is that where a location is hazardous enough for a stop sign that adult supervision is needed. He said that it is up to the city and school to provide this supervision.

Alva DaVault, superintendent of Malden schools, said that he did not receive any correspondence from the state highway department last May and that the first he knew of the change in systems was a few days ago when he received a letter.

Mayor R. J. Dirks said that the City of Malden received a letter from the state highway department, but was awaiting a meeting with a state highway department official before taking any action.

"We contacted the state highway department office at Sikeston and they promised to send a representative to Malden to discuss the matter, but he has never shown up," said Dirks.

Willis said that as soon as the city and school conforms with their requests that the state highway department will send workmen here to paint crosswalks and warning signs. He said that the unattended signs were more hazardous than if none at all are used.

DaVault said that the school has signed the agreement per the request and it has been forwarded to the state highway department. "I don't know where we will get the money to pay the attendants, but apparently we are forced to do it," said DaVault.

In the meantime Mayor Dirks and Chief of Police R. M. Thompson have installed a city-owned stop sign in the crosswalk at West Park. "The state highway department may pick it up again, but we'll keep putting more out until we get this problem settled," said Dirks. "We have an obligation to our children to protect them as much as possible."

Mayor Dirks said that the school has temporarily placed attendants in the area near Lee's Grocery and the Pepsi-Cola plant.

Black Birds Stage Return

DEXTER -- It's been a good summer in a lot of ways -- but as the old saying goes, "All good things must come to an end."

And we think that this "good" summer just came to an end 'cause the black birds are back.

Now just how many returned we couldn't say, since we din't count them but the flock looks just as healthy as it did last year and the year before and the year before that.

Other than being the autumn of 1965 rather than 1964, little else has changed. The roost is still there, the feed that the birds will consume during coming winter months will once again be lost to farmers, the fact that these birds are dirty, disease carrying varmints is still a fact, etc., etc., etc.

Of course, since last year, we have become known as bird city -- and we always wonder if they mean black-bird or if they attach the word "cuckoo" at least mentally to their summation of "bird city".

Oh well, it's been a long and hot summer and at least the birds will offer something new in conversation--and besides, it's good exercise to run to the clothesline with your laundry after the birds fly over in the morning and dash out just before they return at night.

And who wants to leave a clean washed car out in the drive anyway?

Fertility & Sterility

THE FINAL BARRIER

If these difficulties are overcome and some sperm reach an ovum, the armor of the egg itself must be breached. The armor consists, first, of an outer coating of a substance known as fertilizin, which attracts sperm. But here again nature presents an obstacle. On the surface of sperm is a substance called anti-fertilizin. When one combines with the other, the sperm clump and lose their penetrating power. They are trapped, so to speak, by the guard at the moat. Since there is always some dissolved fertilizin in the liquid that engulfs an egg, sperm might never reach it, but nature's surplus again proves invaluable. The excess numbers mop up the dissolved fertilizin so that at least one non-neutralized sperm can confront the egg.

The final barrier is a tough inner membrane which is held together by a glue-like substance, hyaluronic acid. Sperm contain a complementary substance, an enzyme known as hyaluronidase, which dissolves the glue. Interestingly, the ability of various disease-causing organisms (and reptile venoms) to invade tissues and spread their infections is dependent on their production of this enzyme. As hyaluronidase breaks down the cement of the membrane, sperm slip through the cracks and enter.

And so the egg is fertilized. Conception has cleared the natural obstacle course.

Oran -- An accident which came near being a tragedy happened at the Ernest Hanselman home two miles south of Oran, last Friday night, Orville, a son in the twenties, started out with a shotgun to kill an owl. While running around the house he accidentally stepped into a hole in the ground and fell, discharging the gun. The shot entered his body close to his heart. LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Mr. Editor,

I saw that picture of the big ham and big watermelon in today's paper. What some people won't do for publicity! I think the whole thing was a fake. If you knew "Salty" Zimmerman you would too! Why, one time he was asleep on a deer stand and a car ran over and killed a deer right in front of him! He always said he killed it, but who could believe that after 17 years of missing them?

I just thought someone should tip you off to his guy because about next week he'll be coming in with the biggest cucumber or something. Just look at those crafty eyes!

A FEW OBSERVATIONS ON THE MEANING OF THE EIGHTH AMENDMENT

And it was held in New Jersey: It is not easy to define what punishments are "cruel and unusual" within the constitutional inhibition. In a limited sense, anything is cruel which is calculated to give pain or distress. And, since punishment imports pain or suffering to the convict, it may be said that all punishments are in some sense cruel. But of course, the Constitution does not mean that crime for this reason is to go unpunished. On the contrary, it plainly contemplates that crime can only be effectively deterred by inflicting some sort of pain or suffering upon the convicted offender. By the common law, murder, and indeed many crimes much less serious, were punished by death. This is still the punishment under our law for the crime of murder in the first degree. It is absurd to suppose that the Constitution prohibits it. Therefore it is open to the Legislature to determine some mode in which the death penalty may be inflicted. Instead of hanging by the neck, they have now provided that death shall be caused as speedily as possible by the direct application of electricity to the body of the convict. On its face the statute imports an effort by the lawmaking body to mitigate the pain and suffering of the convict. We cannot assume that death by the electric current is a cruel punishment in the constitutional sense.

A somewhat novel situation was before the United States Supreme Court in Louisiana ex rel Francis v. Resweber. Here, the convict was strapped into the electric chair and the switch was thrown, but owing to mechanical failure the current was not sufficient to kill him. When preparations were made for a renewed execution, he protested that such preparations violated the constitutional prohibition against cruel and unusual punishment, on the ground that he was being subjected to a lingering death in the nature of torture. A majority of the Supreme Court rejected this assertion, saying:

The cruelty against which the Constitution protects a convicted man is cruelty inherent in the method of punishment, not the necessary suffering involved in any method employed to extinguish life humanely. The fact that an unforeseeable accident prevented the prompt consummation of the sentence cannot, it seems to us, add an element of cruelty to a subsequent execution. There is no purpose to inflict unnecessary pain nor any unnecessary pain involved in the proposed execution.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 25-year-old male who is writing this letter in the washroom because if anyone in the office walked by my desk and saw a letter that started "Dear Ann Landers" they'd split a gut.

I have a problem that is bugging me something terrific. I'm engaged to a lovely, attractive girl. Cathy and I grew up together as neighbors. She was the only girl I ever cared about. Cathy and my sister are close friends. My parents think she's great. It just seems natural for us to get married.

About three months ago a real little doll started to work in this office. I find myself borrowing stamps from her, paper clips, manila envelopes--anything to start a conversation. This chick draws me like a magnet. Yesterday she came over and asked me how to spell a word and I got goose bumps.

Our wedding date is set for October. Although I'm making light of this I'm dead serious. What should I do? -- THE BIG Q

Dear Q: Tell Cathy how you feel. Suggest that she call off the engagement and date others for a few months. Then get better acquainted with goose bumps. By October you should know for sure which of these girls you want and Cathy will have had a chance to compare you with a few others, too, which is fair to all concerned. Now wash your hands and go back to your desk.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I do a lot of informal entertaining during the summer. We have fixed up our back yard and it's ideal for barbecue suppers. The trouble is the next door neighbors. Whenever they see we have guests they move right in on the party. They actually kidnap our friends by inviting them into their home to see something of interest or to try a special bourbon.

We have invited these neighbors to many back yard parties but we see no reason to invite them every time we entertain. Do you? My husband says we might as well. They come anyway.

Last night most of our guests ended up in the neighbors' house and I'm boiling. Am I selfish, petty, or justified? What's the solution?-- LOVE THY WHAT?

Dear What? If you really want to knock off the guest raiding tell your neighbors in plain English exactly what you told me. It will probably terminate your friendship as well -- but I don't think that would be a great loss.

Dear Ann Landers: My wife's favorite aunt was widowed nine years ago. It was my suggestion that she make her home with us. Lily was one of the loveliest, most delightful people I've ever known.

Seven months ago Aunt Lily became ill. The doctors told us (and her) that she had terminal cancer. We decided to keep her at home rather than put her in a hospital

My wife's sister and brother dropped in every other Sunday for ten minutes. How we would have appreciated an evening out during those last months, but no one in the family offered to relieve us.

Aunt Lily's will was read two weeks ago. She left everything to us. We didn't know she had stocks and bonds that went back many years. She never mentioned it. Now the family is swarming around, demanding their "share." My wife's sister says Aunt Lily was not mentally competent toward the end and that it is up to us to do "the right thing." She feels we should divide the money equally with her and her brother. What do you say? -- BEFUDDLED

Dear Befuddled: Why should I say anything? It was Aunt Lily's money and she said it.

What is French kissing? Is it wrong? Who should set the necking limits -- the boy or the girl? Can a shotgun wedding succeed? Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-age Sex-- Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Malden Will Honor Farmers And Industries

MALDEN -- The Malden Chamber of Commerce will hold its annual farmer's night and industry appreciation night as a joint affair this year. It will be held Sept. 23.

The project is being sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, business firms, the Lions Club, Rotary Club, Jaycees, Kiwanis Club and American Legion.

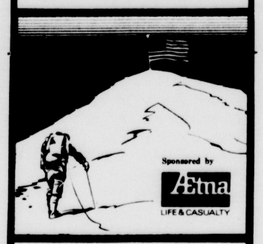

All farmers in the Malden area and officials and employees of local industries are invited. Appreciation night will be in the form of a picnic at the Malden Airport near the Tri-County Trade School.

Jack Lewis Sr., of Anna, Ill., president of the Bunny Bread Company will be the guest speaker.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

Father Gilbert Stack is the founder of Bethlehem, S. D., where, in a crystal cave, he and a handful of other Benedictine Monks have built the Shrine of the Nativity, a replica of one in the Holy Land. Father Gilbert recalls that Christ was born in a stable in a cave, and that St. Benedict, founder of his order, the patron saint of cave explorers, lived in a cave for three years.

Approximately 10,000 people a year visit the shrine. There are two services each morning during the summer and on special religious days during the year. There is no admission charge nor are there offering boxes of any kind. Father Gilbert adds, "But we do ask everyone who visits us to say a prayer for peace."

To support themselves as their order decrees, Father Gilbert has become a printer, and prints occasional cards for Christmas and birthdays. During the Christmas season he gets thousands of orders for Christmas cards requesting they be postmarked from Bethlehem.

The clinics are staffed by Mrs. Betty Miles, county health nurse, Dr. Wayne Croom, Dr. William Morehead and volunteer workers from civic groups.

The clinic is a continuing service for preschool children who could not otherwise recieve the care. All children are examined; immunizations are given; and permanent records are kept. Disease prevention and health education are stressed. When physical or other abnormalities are found, the child is reffered to the family physician for needed treatment.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 25-year-old male who is writing this letter in the washroom because if anyone in the office walked by my desk and saw a letter that started "Dear Ann Landers" they'd split a gut.

I have a problem that is bugging me something terrific. I'm engaged to a lovely, attractive girl. Cathy and I grew up together as neighbors. She was the only girl I ever cared about. Cathy and my sister are close friends. My parents think she's great. It just seems natural for us to get married.

About three months ago a real little doll started to work in this office. I find myself borrowing stamps from her, paper clips, manila envelopes--anything to start a conversation. This chick draws me like a magnet. Yesterday she came over and asked me how to spell a word and I got goose bumps.

Our wedding date is set for October. Although I'm making light of this I'm dead serious. What should I do? -- THE BIG Q

Dear Q: Tell Cathy how you feel. Suggest that she call off the engagement and date others for a few months. Then get better acquainted with goose bumps. By October you should know for sure which of these girls you want and Cathy will have had a chance to compare you with a few others, too, which is fair to all concerned. Now wash your hands and go back to your desk.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I do a lot of informal entertaining during the summer. We have fixed up our back yard and it's ideal for barbecue suppers. The trouble is the next door neighbors.

Whenever they see we have guests they move right in on the party. They actually kidnap our friends by inviting them into their home to see something of interest or to try a special bourbon.

We have invited these neighbors to many back yard parties but we see no reason to invite them every time we entertain. Do you? My husband says we might as well. They come anyway.

Last night most of our guests ended up in the neighbors' house and I'm boiling. Am I selfish, petty, or justified? What's the solution?-- LOVE THY WHAT?

Dear What? If you really want to knock off the guest raiding tell your neighbors in plain English exactly what you told me. It will probably terminate your friendship as well -- but I don't think that would be a great loss.

Dear Ann Landers: My wife's favorite aunt was widowed nine years ago. It was my suggestion that she make her home with us. Lily was one of the loveliest, most delightful people I've ever known.

Seven months ago Aunt Lily became ill. The doctors told us (and her) that she had terminal cancer. We decided to keep her at home rather than put her in a hospital.

My wife's sister and brother dropped in every other Sunday for ten minutes. How we would have appreciated an evening out during those last months, but no one in the family offered to relieve us.

Aunt Lily's will was read two weeks ago. She left everything to us. We didn't know she had stocks and bonds that went back many years. She never mentioned it. Now the family is swarming around, demanding their "share." My wife's sister says Aunt Lily was not mentally competent toward the end and that it is up to us to do "the right thing." She feels we should divide the money equally with her and her brother. What do you say? -- BEFUDDLED

Dear Befuddled: Why should I say anything? It was Aunt Lily's money and she said it.

What is French kissing? Is it wrong? Who should set the necking limits -- the boy or the girl? Can a shotgun wedding succeed? Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-age Sex-- Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Malden Will Honor Farmers And Industries

MALDEN -- The Malden Chamber of Commerce will hold its annual farmer's night and industry appreciation night as a joint affair this year. It will be held Sept. 23.

The project is being sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, business firms, the Lions Club, Rotary Club, Jaycees, Kiwanis Club and American Legion.

All farmers in the Malden area and officials and employees of local industries are invited. Appreciation night will be in the form of a picnic at the Malden Airport near the Tri-County Trade School.

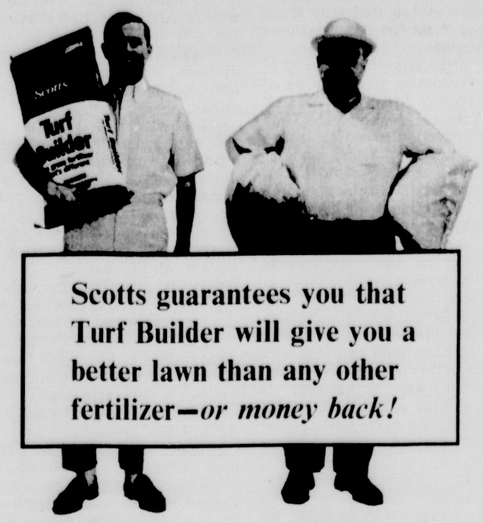

Jack Lewis Sr., of Anna, Ill., president of the Bunny Bread Company will be the guest speaker.

The word "aviation" stems from the Latin word "avis," meaning bird.

The POWER of FAITH
By WOODI ISHMAEL

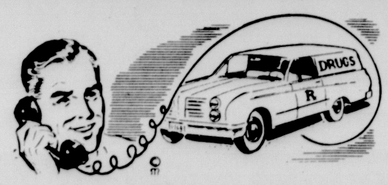

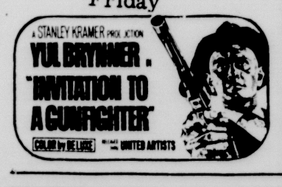

Father Gilbert Stack is the founder of Bethlehem, S. D., where, in a crystal cave, he and a handful of other Benedictine Monks have built the Shrine of the Nativity, a replica of one in the Holy Land. Father Gilbert recalls that Christ was born in a stable in a cave, and that St. Benedict, founder of his order, the patron saint of cave explorers, lived in a cave for three years.

Approximately 10,000 people a year visit the shrine. There are two services each morning during the summer and on special religious days during the year. There is no admission charge nor are there offering boxes of any kind. Father Gilbert adds, "But we do ask everyone who visits us to say a prayer for peace."

To support themselves as their order decrees, Father Gilbert has become a printer, and prints occasional cards for Christmas and birthdays. During the Christmas season he gets thousands of orders for Christmas cards requesting they be postmarked from Bethlehem.

Wrestling was a highly developed sport at least 3,000 years before the Christian era. On walls of the temple tombs of the ancient Egyptians there are sculptured many hundreds of scenes from wrestling matches depicting practically all the holds and falls known even today. It was also an important sport in ancient Greece. The Greeks introduced it to Rome in the last quarter of the second century B.C.

Today in U. S. History

Today is Friday, Sept. 10, the 253rd day of 1965. There are 112 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1813, Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry, leading a fleet he had built in the winter of 1812-13, defeated a British flotilla off Put-In-Bay, Ohio. His report said tersely, "We have met the enemy and they are ours."

On this date:

In 1608, John Smith was elected governor of the Jamestown Colony in Virginia.

In 1846, Elias Howe patented the first sewing machine.

In 1894, the United Daughters of the Confederacy was organized at Nashville, Tenn.

In 1917, voters in the State of Maine rejected woman suffrage by a large majority.

In 1940, Nazi planes damaged Buckingham Palace.

Ten years ago — France agreed that a sovereign state would be set up in Morocco, tied to France by an act of "interdependence."

Five years ago — The State Department announced that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev would not be permitted to leave Manhattan Island during his visit to the U.N. in New York City.

One year ago — Ambassador Maxwell Taylor returned to Saigon, leaving a conclusion that war with Communist guerrillas in South Viet Nam would not be ended in the foreseeable future.

Dexter Will Vote On $85,000 Bond Issue

DEXTER -- Dexter voters will cast their ballots on a $85,000 bond issue Sept. 28 to provide for expansion of the Elder Manufacturing Company -- an expansion that will mean approximately 70 more jobs for Dexter people in the Elder plant.

The voting of the bonds will not mean any increase in taxes for Dexter persons, since the bonds will be retired by rental payments to be made to the city by the Elder firm.

The plan is being sponsored by the Dexter Chamber of Commerce with the approval of the city council. All phases of the project have been approved by the state division of commerce and industrial development which has given approval to the bond proposal, to the Elder firm, and to the city's plan to provide for expansion.

The issue will require a two-thirds majority for passage.

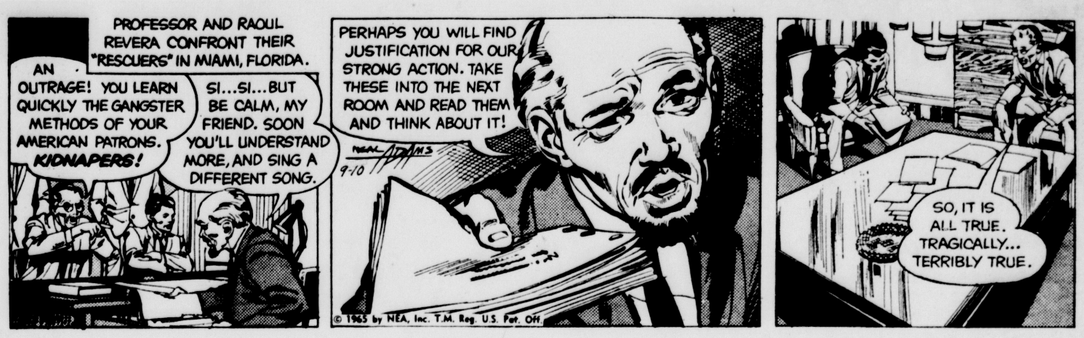

Q—What language did Christ speak?

A—The language used to preach the Sermon on the Mount was Aramaic, the mother tongue of Jesus and his disciples. The Old Testament books of Daniel and Ezra were written originally in Aramaic, as was the New Testament Gospel of Saint Matthew.

NEW AT U.N.—James Roosevelt is new U.S. representative on the United Nations Economic and Social Council, the post long held by his late mother, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt. Roosevelt, for the past 10 years a Democratic representative from California, is giving up his seat in Congress.
